The 200 freight handlers and clerks of the Boston & Albany Railroad and the 450 handlers of the New Haven, at noon today joined the 700 Boston & Maine employes in the strike for a 15 per cent. increase in wages, a nine-hour working day and pay for all holidays.

This action followed a conference today between six representatives of the Boston & Albany freight handlers and clerks and M. M. Biscoe, vice-president of the road.

The freight handlers in the employ of the New Haven Railroad joined in the strike as the officials of that road refused to grant them similar demands. New Haven officials said that a conference had been arranged for Tuesday.

At a joint conference called by Mayor Curley in City Hall today, at which representatives of the striking employes of the Boston & Maine, of the road and of the Boston port directors were present, the Mayor urged settlement of the controversy by referring all the questions in dispute to the State Board of Arbitration for decision.

Charles S. Pierce, who appeared for the Boston & Maine, said the arbitration proposal would be laid before the directors of the company in time for their decision to reach the Mayor by 10 o'clock, Monday morning.

SUSPECT SHOT AT LIEGE

By STUART MARTIN.
Special Correspondent of the International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Mingled resentment and horror, which swept England following the execution of Miss Edith Cavell by a German firing squad in Belgium, was intensified today by the statement of the Amsterdam correspondent of the Daily Mail that another woman was recently shot to death by German soldiers at Liege.

The Mail's correspondent wired as follows:

"The Telegraaf states that the Germans executed a French woman, Mlle. Louise Frenay, at Liege, a fortnight ago. The firing party purposely aimed low and shots hit only about the legs. The German officer therefore shot her through the head with a revolver."

Miss Cavell, the British nurse, is called the modern Joan of Arc. Special services will be held in her memory in churches tomorrow. Sir George Frampton, a famous sculptor, has offered to model Miss Cavell as a national memorial.

Suggestions are pouring into the press from every station of life as to reprisals and memorials for the nurse. It is suggested among other things that a "Cavell regiment" be raised.

The first German version of the execution of the English woman has arrived here and it sets up the contention that her execution was necessary as an example.

Girl Shot by Uncle Dies at Hartford

HARTFORD, Ct., Oct. 23.—Mary Rabonwitz, seventeen years old, who was shot and seriously wounded by her uncle, Charles Rabonwitz, aged thirty-one, about two weeks ago, died this morning at the Hartford Hospital. A week ago it was thought that the girl would recover from her two bullet wounds but pneumonia developed a few days ago. Rabinowitz committed suicide immediately after shooting the girl. Miss Rabinowitz formerly lived in Winchester, Mass.

Pope to Create 12 Cardinals, Is Rome Report

By CAMILLO CIANFARRA.
International News Service Staff Correspondent.

ROME, Oct. 23.—Twelve prelates of the Catholic Church will be given the red hat of the Cardinalate by Pope Benedict XV, at the Consistory to be held in November, according to reports current in Vatican circles today.

The name of Archbishop Ireland is prominently mentioned in the rumors of probable selections by the Pope.

Of the twelve who have been selected, it is said that one is German, one French and five or more Italians. Among the Italians reported to have been selected are Monsignor Scapinelli, Apostolic Nuncio at Vienna; Monsignor Boggiano, secretary of the Holy Office; Monsignor Giacoli, Archbishop of Genoa, and Ranuzzi Debianchi, the Pope's major domo.

Auto Burglars Loot Stores of 4 Towns in Raid

By International News Service.

LAWRENCE, Oct. 23.—Auto burglars raided Methuen, Hampshire Roads and Salem, N. H., last evening, entering a store on Oakland avenue and the railway station in Methuen; broke into the passenger station at Hampshire Roads; forced an entrance to the station at Salem, and continued on through New Hampshire.

The entrances were all made by smashing windows during the early hours of the morning.

The police of Methuen and Salem are at sea in the matter and have not the slightest clew as to the identity of the miscreants.

The burglars are said to have secured $500 in cash and loot.

HARVARD IN BIG GAME

HARVARD STADIUM, Oct. 23.—Harvard and Cornell squared off today in the most important contest so far this season for each team. The Crimson warriors went into the game realizing that they had a hard battle before them, but were confident of rendering a good account of themselves.

Cornell brought one of its strongest teams in years to the Stadium. Captain Charley Barrett's athletes were determined to give the Crimson a real battle and were right on edge for the fray.

The fine football weather brought out a big crowd, all eager to see how these two big teams were shaping up in midseason.

Harvard put forth its strongest team of the year today and the Crimson followers backed it liberally, covering all the money the confident Rhodans had to offer.

Today's game was looked on as Harvard's first real test of the year.

GREAT CORNELL VICTOR-E-E! STOLEN BEAR RECAPTURED

"Touchdown," Cornell's bear, stolen from lobby of Hotel Lenox, but later recovered from Harvard baseball cage by twenty brave and husky Cornell boys.

"Touchdown," the mascot bear of the Cornell University football eleven, kidnaped early today from his cage at the Hotel Lenox, was later rescued by twenty stalwart Cornell boys from the baseball cage at Harvard, where he was imprisoned.

The Cornellians were jubilant over the recovery of "Touchdown" and with him at their head, went to the Stadium confident of vanquishing the Harvard football team.

Members of the Cornell squad did some fine detective work. Acting on a tip obtained by one of their number, twenty of them went to Harvard in taxies.

The raiders soon discovered their mascot locked securely in the baseball "cage," or indoor baseball building. The boys told the janitor they wanted the bear. When the janitor demurred, he immediately found himself on the bottom of a mass formation.

He was locked in a room, and with his keys the Cornell men soon liberated their mascot, hustled him into a waiting automobile, and the whole party was on its way back to Boston before Harvard students knew what had happened.

ALLIES ARE DEFIED BY GREECE

By International News Service.

LONDON, Oct. 23.—Greece has defied the Entente Powers by refusing either to carry out its obligations under the Graeco-Serb treaty or to disband its army.

In a joint note presented to the French, British, Italian and Russian ministers at Athens last night, Premier Zaimis declared that Greece, as a sovereign state, has the right to regulate its own affairs.

The Greek Premier pledges his government not to interfere with the passage of the allies through Grecian territory, but states that the army will remain in a state of mobilization. Protests by the allies that the Greek government has not correctly interpreted the treaty with Serbia are answered by the statement that Greece can decide this question for itself, and has already done so.

Meanwhile English and French warships are bombarding the Bulgarian coast on the Aegean Sea, while Russian warships are bombarding the Bulgarian coast on the Black Sea, according to dispatches from several sources today.

The Admiralty has issued this statement:

"Allied ships bombarded Dedeagatch on the 21st, damaging harbor works, the railway station and shipping.

TO PREY ON SHIPS OF ALLIES

By International News Service.

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—Reports received by the Department of Justice from its agents this afternoon confirmed a report that the American steamer Zealandia, which sailed from Pensacola, Fla., October 7, had been converted into a German cruiser and will be used for raiding the commerce of the allies.

The Zealandia changed its regular crew at Pensacola and shipped a crew made up entirely of Germans, government agents reported.

It is believed here that the Germans who escaped from interned ships at Norfolk, Va., are aboard the Zealandia.

Somewhere off the Florida coast the United States revenue cutter Miami is in hot pursuit of the Zealandia, which is a 3,000 ton steamer, this afternoon, according to confidential reports to the Department of Justice.

The Zelandia is alleged to be manned by a German crew, among whom are the Germans who escaped from the interned cruisers at Norfolk, Va.

Agents of the Department of Justice earlier say that they have received information that the Zelandia is to be used as a commerce raider by the Germans.

It was stated at the Department of Justice this afternoon that if any of the men who escaped from Norfolk are found aboard the Zelandia they can be prosecuted on charges of piracy, which is punishable by death.

BRITAIN'S ANGER GROWS OVER EXECUTION OF EDITH CAVELL

on the Cavell case, declares that the woman was in a plot to help men of military age to leave Belgium. The Wolff version was received here from Amsterdam and says in part:

"Evidence was secured to show an organized plot to enable men of military age to leave Belgium despite the orders of the German military authorities to the contrary. The leaders in this plan were a Belgian and some French aristocrats. The plot was promoted by thirty-five prisoners, two-thirds of whom were women, including Princess Maria de Croix, Countess de Belleville and Miss Edith Cavell.

"The headquarters of the conspirators were in the English hospital. The evidence showed that a Belgian architect, M. Baucq, was Miss Cavell's chief assistant and the activities of these people extended over many months.

"OFFENCE AGGRAVATED."

"Hitherto the courts had dealt very mildly with these offences, but this time it was advisable that greater severity should be employed as a warning to the Belgians to obey the orders of the German Governor-General. Prince Reginald, husband of the Princess de Croix, is said to be still at large."

An effort will be made to have the body of Miss Cavell brought back to England, where it will be buried with the greatest ceremony and with the national expressions of sorrow.

Advices from Amsterdam state that the people of Holland have been greatly stirred by the execution of Miss Cavell, especially the manner in which it was carried out, and that harsh criticism of the Germans is being heard on every hand.

The priest who was present at the execution was so greatly affected that he is now suffering from nervous prostration.

INDIGNATION GROWING.

Mrs. Humphrey Ward, the novelist, proposes that the Queen take the lead in the name of the women of England in the formation of a national committee to erect a memorial tablet to Miss Cavell in St. Paul's Church or Westminster Abbey.

Among views expressed on the execution are the following:

Lady Limerick: "If this frightful murder of our Joan of Arc does not awaken the young men of England nothing will. Every real man should be savagely eager to avenge a death which adds another blot to the escutcheon of Germany, the land of horrors and murderers."

Sir Gilbert Parker: "Of all the outrages committed by the Germans no doubtedly the worst is this cold-blooded murder, committed in defiance of the plea of the British prime minister, as the spokesman of 100,000 people, who will call it a monstrous crime of which no other nation would be guilty."

Sir Herbert Beerbohm Tree: "No words can express the horror of it. Representatives of all classes, from the Peer to pitman, join in the condemnation of Germany's awful crime. A movement already is under way to erect a monument to the heroic nurse who gave her life to the cause of love, mankind and charity."

MISS CAVELL DIED LIKE HEROINE, SAYS BRITISH CHAPLAIN WHO SAW HER

LONDON, Oct. 23.—The report of the Rev. H. S. T. Gahan, British chaplain in Brussels, who visited Miss Edith Cavell just before her execution, and a letter from Brand Whitlock, the American minister to Belgium, to Walter Hines Page, the American ambassador in London, as last made public by the British Foreign Office, have further stirred public sentiment here.

Brand Whitlock says he requested that the body of Miss Cavell be delivered to the school for nurses of which she was the directress, his request being referred to the ministry of war in Berlin.

NO FEAR OR DEATH.

The Rev. Mr. Gahan, in his report, says:

"On Monday evening, the 11th of October, I was admitted by a special passport from the German authorities to the prison of St. Gilles, where Miss Edith Cavell had been confined for ten weeks. The final sentence had been given early that afternoon.

"To my astonishment and relief I found my friend perfectly calm and resigned, but this could only lessen the tenderness and intensity of feeling on either part during that last interview of almost an hour.

"Her first words to me were upon a matter concerning herself personally, but the solemn asseveration which accompanied them was made expressedly in the light of God and eternity. She then added that she wished all her friends to know that she willingly gave her life for her country, and said:

"I have no fear nor shrinking. I have seen death so often that it is not strange or terrible to me.'

"She further said:

REPEATS HYMN.

"'I thank God for this ten weeks of quiet before the end. My life has always been hurried and full of difficulties; this time has been a great mercy. They have all been very kind to me here. But this I would say standing as I do in view of God and eternity: I realize that patriotism is not enough. I must have no hatred or bitterness toward anyone.'

"We partook of holy communion together, and she received the gospel message of consolation with all her heart. At the close of the little service I began to repeat the words, 'Abide With Me,' and she joined softly in the end.

"We sat quietly talking until it was time for me to go. She gave me parting messages for relations and friends. She spoke of her soul's needs at the moment and she received the assurance of God's words only as a Christian can do.

"Then I said good-by, and she smiled and said, 'We shall meet again.'

"A German military chaplain was with her at the end and afterwards gave her a Christian burial. He told me:

WHITLOCK HOPEFUL.

"'She was brave and bright to the last. She professed her Christian faith and said she was glad to die for her country.' She died like a heroine.'"

Mr. Whitlock, in enclosing the letter he wrote to Baron von der Lancken, the German Governor, at the request of President Calder of the Court of Appeals in Brussels and the president of the Belgian Relief for Nurses, asking that Miss Cavell's body be delivered to the School for Nurses, of which she was the directress, says:

"I have not received a written reply to my note to Baron von der Lancken on the subject, but he came to see me yesterday afternoon and stated that the body had been interred near the prison of St. Gilles, where the execution took place, and that under the regulations governing such cases it was impossible to exhume the body without written permission from the Minister of War at Berlin.

"He added that he had -- authority to ask for permission to exhume the body, but that immediately upon the return of the Governor-General he would request him to take the matter up.

"I shall hope to be able to tell you that we have at least been able to accomplish this small service."

GERMAN NEWSPAPER UPHOLDS SHOOTING OF EDITH CAVELL

By the International News Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—The North German Gazette, official organ of the government, today declared that the execution of Miss Edith Cavell at Brussels was entirely justified, she having been convicted of treason.

"The Gazette compares the Englishwoman's case with that of a French girl, who was praised in an editorial in the Manchester Guardian on Oct. 15 for shooting two German soldiers from behind, and adds:

"Such deeds are contrary to the laws of war, though glorified by the English and French press. If this girl had been taken by troops and shot, as would be just, the English press would never cease to make a howl about the 'Barbarian manner in which the Germans make war.' Just as at the present time, when an Englishwoman has been executed in Belgium after having been found guilty of treason."

BERLIN CONTROL FOR ALL FOOD SUPPLIES

By International News Service.

BERLIN, Oct. 23.—The imperial government of Germany announced today that it will shortly take over absolute control of food distribution and prices, thus removing the control from the State and provincial authorities, which have had charge of it.

The announcement, given out through the Overseas News Agency, follows:

"The German Imperial government intends to take into its own hands the prices and supply of food stuffs for all Germany, control of which, up to the present, has been in the hands of the State and provincial authorities. It is now considered necessary to equalize the positions of the various sections of the empire so as to distribute prices and victuals, which are abundant, more equitably. Under present conditions some of the States and provinces have less food on hand than others.

"New regulations will be made in order to avoid these differences and distribute evenly all over Germany the foodstuffs, in order to provide for the Winter. The government wishes to assure full supply at reasonable prices. Conferences have been commenced upon the subject and a decision is expected at once."

Frederick H. Prince, the banker, has received a telegram from the State Department in Washington confirming the newspaper report that his son, Norman Prince, has been captured in the French army has not been captured, as was earlier announced.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Mounted on a horse, Art Jarvis, a movie actor, rode off a precipice eighty-three feet high into Au Sable Chasm, in the Adirondacks, in the perpendicular descent, horse and rider turned two complete somersaults.

Jarvis was rushed today from the mountains to Flower Hospital, in a special Pullman car. He is suffering with a broken leg and infinite bruises and lacerations. He has a chance of recovery.

The wild leap terminated in a pool of water, dotted by sharp, ugly crags of rock. Catapulted from the great height, both horse and rider struck the water together. The weight of the horse carried its rider to the bottom of the pool. He was dragged out by waiting boatmen.

During his leap downward, one of the five camera men stationed to snap the unusual scene, fainted. Every one else who witnessed it thought Jarvis' death was certain.

The leap took place on Thursday, when Jarvis was playing the role of Don Jose in "Carmen."

NEW HAVEN AND BRITISH TROOPS THE ALBANY IN STRIKE REPORTED IN SERBIA

delegation from the Freight Handlers' Union, promised the Mayor he would urge the acceptance of the arbitration proposal at a meeting which will be held tomorrow afternoon, at which representatives of the Boston & Maine employes on strike, as well as representative of the freight handlers and clerks on the New Haven and Boston & Albany roads, will be present. Mr. White declared he would urge the men to agree on condition that the strikers be taken back to work pending the consideration of their demands by the Board of Arbitration.

Attorney Pierce for the Boston & Maine presented a statement to the Mayor from the management of the road, declaring that the men had struck on one hour's notice and had, therefore, forfeited all right to consideration by the company. The statement continued to the effect that the management intended to go right ahead and fill the places of the strikers, and would have nothing more to do with the union.

CALLS ROAD "UNFAIR."

Mayor Curley attacked the road's attitude as "unfair," and Mr. Pierce finally said he would lay the arbitration proposal before the directors of the company.

In the event of a general strike, the teamsters' union will be asked to order their men to keep out of the freight yards and do no collection or delivery of goods at any of the places where strike-breakers may be at work.

It is reported that the Boston & Maine has employed a detective agency to furnish guards for its property. These guards and details of police have been assigned to the yards at Charlestown, Cambridge and Somerville.

MEN AND BOYS AT WORK.

About 150 men and boys who answered advertisements have been put to work by the Boston & Maine, trying to clear the doors of the freight houses and allow the teamsters to get their loads inside. Pickets have not interfered.

The following statement was given out today by the Boston & Albany management:

"A committee representing the freight handlers at Kneeland street freight station, met the management of the Boston & Albany Railroad this morning and presented demands for $2.64 per day for nine-hour day, and that the men should be paid for holidays when they do not work.

"The position of Vice-President Bisco is that the rate of pay at Boston for freight handlers, which is now $2.30 per day, time and a half for overtime, is now 20 cents per day higher than the rate paid in New York, where it is $2 per day, and that conditions in Boston will not permit of the Boston & Albany Railroad making further increase in wages.

"It was also pointed out to the men that the wages of the Boston & Albany freight handlers in Boston had been continually increased during the last four or five years; that in 1906 the wages varied from $1.75 to $2.00 per day, while today, all men were paid $2.30 per day, making increases of from thirty cents to fifty-five cents per day. Under these conditions Mr. Bisco declined to grant the demands made by the men, as they informed him upon leaving his office that they would immediately call a strike."

First Tile Catch Sold in New York

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Broiled tile has made its appearance on many New York tables. The first catch ever brought into port was landed by Captain Carl C. Young of the Gloucester fishing schooner Stranger.

Two hours after the opening of the market, more than half the catch of 10,000 pound was on its way to clubs, restaurants and retail fish dealers. At wholesale the tile brought 20 cents a pound, with a brisk demand. The fish averaged between 10 and 11 pounds, with numerous specimens scaling up to 35 or 40 pounds.

firing at any points except those of military importance."

Paris reports that allied warships bombarded the Bulgarian coast and the port of Dedeagatch on Thursday afternoon. The official statement issued by the Ministry of Marine follows:

"In the afternoon of October 21 allied warships bombarded the warehouses, magazines and approaches to the port of Dedeagatch, without firing on the residential section of the city.

"In addition, they destroyed a certain number of works and military posts of observation on the Bulgarian coast."

An against this statement from Paris is set the following dispatch from Sofia:

"The bombardment of the port of Dedeagatch by the Anglo-French fleet was a complete failure from a military viewpoint, the Bulgarian War Office announced today, adding that no real damage was caused.

"Attaches of the War Office expressed the belief that the bombardment was ordered for the political effect that it might have in Greece, rather than in the belief that it would interfere with the Bulgarian campaign in any way."

An Athens dispatch reports that the allies also bombed Turkish territory from the air. This dispatch reads:

"Aeroplanes from the Anglo-French fleet on the Aegean bombarded the Turkish railway between Dedeagatch and Adrianople on Friday.

"Several bombs are said to have been dropped upon the outskirts of Adrianople, where there are great military stores.

"The railway attacked is the one recently turned over to Bulgaria by Turkey, and is the only line of communication by which Dedeagatch can be supplied."

CRISIS AT DARDANELLES.

A Constantinople statement indicates that a crisis is at hand on the Gallipoli peninsula.

The Turkish War Office claims to have intercepted several wireless messages sent from French and British headquarters on the peninsula, in which warning was given that the allied soldiers lacked for food and ammunition supplies, lack of which would compel a retreat to the coast in the near future unless the situation was remedied.

This may point to the abandonment of the Dardanelles campaign, for it is known that British troops were landed at Serbia, prepared to help King Peter's army against the attacks of the Bulgarians.

Reports comprising the eastern wing of the German army invading Serbia have crossed the Drina, and that the Bulgarian forces in northeastern Serbia are rapidly advancing toward a junction with the Austro-German troops. The towns of Rogeljevo and Negotin have been taken.

Forts defending Uskub, the most important railway town in central Serbia, have rushed an immense quantity of heavy artillery to the Serbian frontier near Strumitza, where the Salonica-Nish railway runs close to the line, with the idea of bombarding the road to prevent the transportation of Anglo-French troops northward.

An official statement from Nish says French troops are fighting near Strumitza.

At least 100 miles of the Salonica-Tahure, but the assaults resulted in failure, the War Office announced today.

The attacking forces suffered heavy losses, being mowed down by the fire of the French troops.

Before beginning the attacks, the Germans bombarded the French lines with shells containing poison gases. Owing to the methods now used by the French to combat this manner of fighting, the Germans found General Joffre's forces ready for the mass attacks that followed.

THANKSGIVING WEDDING FOR PRESIDENT?

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23.—The Thanksgiving holidays are to see the wedding of President Wilson and Mrs. Norman Galt, according to close friends of the engaged couple. While no official information of any character dealing with the plans is as yet forthcoming, the immediate relatives of the couple are known to be arranging their affairs to be within easy touch of Washington from about the middle of November.

Miss Margaret Wilson is back in the White House to stay until after the wedding. Mrs. F. B. Sayre and her baby are expected here within a week from her New England home to stay with her father and sister for an indefinite period.

Mrs. William G. McAdoo, the other Wilson daughter, will be back from a trip to the Pacific Coast about November 10, while relatives of Mrs. Galt and the other relatives of the President are already gathering here.

President Wilson and his fiancee, accompanied by Miss Margaret, today motored seventy-five miles to Emmettsburg, Md., to have luncheon with Mrs. Galt's brother-in-law, Sterling Galt, editor of the Emmettsburg Chronicle.

The President has made no engagements after November 12 and this adds color to the report that the nuptials will not be delayed until the Christmas holidays, but that the new mistress of the White House will be installed when Congress convenes on December 6.

Although there has been much discussion regarding Mrs. Galt's plans when she assumes her duties as mistress of the White House no correct information is obtainable.

Her intimates declare that reports that she was planning a campaign of retaliation against the so-called Washington high society are utterly without foundation. They point out that although wealthy in her own right she has never been prominent in any particular set other than whenever any of the old time Virginia set entertained. And those who know Mrs. Galt best declare that as mistress of the White House she will have no feuds to settle.

JEWEL ROBBERY IN STATE STREET

How a paste diamond worth nothing was substituted for a real one valued at $600, in the store of Hodgson, Kennard & Co., jewelers, at No. 25 State street, was related in a police report today.

The police say the thief, dressed as a prosperous business man, called at the jewelry store and asked to see some valuable diamonds. He finally picked out a $600 one and took it to the light for examination. He then apparently returned it, saying he would call again, but as he turned to leave the store the clerk noticed that a paste stone had been "palmed" on him. The clerk pursued the man into the street, but he made his escape in the crowd.

Hodgson, Kennard & Co. is one of the most exclusive jewelry stores in the city.

The thief was dressed like a banker, broker or well-to-do business man. He was careful not to either overdress or overdo the part. He acted so naturally that there was no suspicion aroused in the mind of the clerk who waited on him.

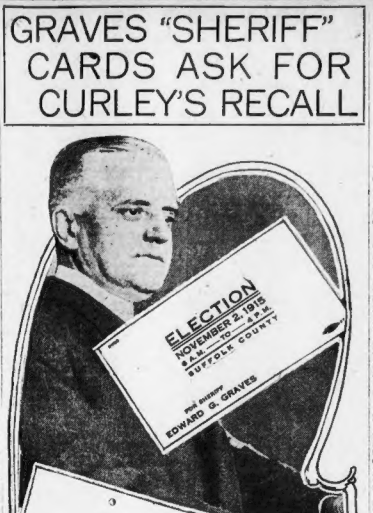
The man is described as being stout, prosperous and important looking, about fifty years old, five feet, ten inches in height, with a stubby moustache, streaked with gray, and wearing dark blue clothes, fashionably tailored. He weighed about 200 pounds.

The firm started this morning to check up their stock to determine whether there had been other thefts.

Summon Boston Men in United Shoe Suit

United States Marshal John Mitchell has subpoenaed President Sidney W. Winslow, treasurer Louis A. Coolidge, director Elmer P. Howe and other directors and officials of the United Shoe Machinery Company to appear as defendants at St. Louis, November 7 in a suit brought by the government under the provisions of the Clayton anti-trust act.

GRAVES "SHERIFF" CARDS ASK FOR CURLEY'S RECALL



Edward G. Graves, Republican candidate for sheriff of Suffolk County, and both sides of card being circulated in his favor seeking the recall of Mayor Curley.

The first definite step by any political organization to secure the recall of Mayor Curley was taken today when recall cards were circulated by the campaign committee of Edward G. Graves, Republican candidate for Sheriff of Suffolk County.

Mr. Graves is a former surveyor of the port of Boston.

On the reverse side of the Graves campaign cards is a representation of the recall question as it will appear upon the ballot, and a cross is marked in favor of the recall.

Mr. Graves said today that the cards were circulated without his knowledge, but he added: "I shall stand by the committee."

Mr. Graves said: "I did not know anything about the cards until I saw them on the street. They were put out by my campaign committee, but as the committee has full authority to handle my campaign, I shall stand by the committee."

Nevertheless, the cards not already distributed were recalled, and no more will be given out.

Secretary Herman Hormel of the Republican City Committee says:

"Candidate Graves made ten speeches last Wednesday night and the Mayor's recall was the theme. I was surprised not to find it featured in the newspapers next day. In my estimation it was a matter of unusual importance locally."

CURLEY IN CORNER.

"Voters are going to have a chance to vote on the recall issue. It will be a place on the ballot, but the public doesn't seem to be aware of it.

"Mayor Curley and his supporters naturally do not relish the emphasis given to the matter by Mr. Graves, but they don't dare reply, fearing to give it too much prominence. They are in a corner.

"Mr. Graves in his campaign for sheriff was resourceful enough to take advantage of this issue. He knows there are thousands of voters who are vitally interested in the recall question, but who might not be keen on the sheriff ticket. He realizes that he has a right to appeal to this class, and he is.

"The way Mr. Graves figures it is that every voter who stays at home or neglects to vote will automatically oppose the Mayor's recall. So if voters happen to be interested he thinks they might bestir themselves and register their sentiment.

GRAVES' CAMPAIGN CARDS.

"As Mr. Graves says, this opposition to Mayor Curley is strong enough to elect him sheriff over Mr. Quinn, the Democratic incumbent, if they turn out."

Graves has caused a stir by calling attention to the recall movement on his campaign cards. The cards, of the regulation business size, read this way on the back:

VOTE YES

Shall there be an election for Mayor at the next municipal election? YES X NO

And this way on the front:

ELECTION
NOVEMBER 2, 1915
8 A. M.—TO—4 P. M.
For Sheriff
EDWARD G. GRAVES

They cannot be sent through the mails because they lack a signature, but they are being distributed liberally at rallies and elsewhere.

WORLD SEARCH FOR GOULD WAIF'S NAME

NEW YORK, Sept. 23.—How a world-wide search, backed by the Gould millions, was prosecuted to establish the identity of the little waif that now bears the name of Finley J. Shepard has just come to light. The Goulds actually spent nearly $50,000.

It was a search that rivalled the search for Charlie Ross,—Dorothy Arnold or Jimmy Glass, and it was equally futile.

James Scribner Mitchesen, a Philadelphia attorney, acted for the Shepards and he secretly employed H. G. Silcox, a Philadelphia detective.

But every effort to learn of the little one's parentage has failed.

The boy, who has been legally adopted by Finley J. Shepard and Helen Gould Shepard and who is now the presumptive heir to $20,000,000, was closely questioned at the Children's Society Home to which he was taken after he had been found on the doors of the Cathedral.

According to Silcox, the youngster mentioned either No. 68 or No. 656 Broad street.

"This fact," said Silcox, "caused the search for his parents to radiate from Philadelphia. We began by making a systematic search of Broad street, Philadelphia. When this yielded nothing we searched every house on the side streets five blocks off Broad street.

"Failing here, we obtained the names of every town in America in which there was a Broad street or a Sixth street. Our list exceeded a thousand and our men combed every Broad and Sixth street in America with the closest care.

"Circulars bearing the boy's description, and a history of his findings, were posted in every schoolhouse in the eastern part of the United States.

"Thousands of letters poured into our office from persons who believed they could identify John Doe No. 104. But every clew we got, every hope on which we pinned our faith, ultimately collapsed. At the end of the long search we found ourselves as far away from the truth about Finley J. Shepard, Jr., as we were the day we commenced."

Finley, Jr., began his day by a plunge in the enclosed pool on the Shepard estate. He was caught by a reporter as he came out with one of Frank Gould's little daughters.

"And how do you like your new home?"

"Oh, pretty good, thank you. Want to see the pony I've got out in the barn?"

It was suggested to Finley, Jr., that he climb a tree. He promptly ascended. Just as he was starting to shin upyard, the front door of the mansion opened and a voice, recognized as the same that has been heard at many important philanthropic meetings years past, called out:

"Sonny, oh, sonny—come in the house, please!"

So, what was there for a new millionaire to do but desist from climbing the tree and promptly obey.

CHARLTON MAY KNOW FATE TODAY

COMO, Italy, Oct. 23.—Porter Charlton, confessed slayer of his wife, Mary Scott Charlton, may know his fate tonight. Practically all the important evidence in his case was concluded at last night's session, and when the trial was resumed today Baron Sclasca, the presiding judge, warned the lawyers that he would tolerate no delay.

Charlton came into court without showing any traces of agitation, though even his closest friends admitted that he had damaged his case by the admission wrung from him last night that he had been drinking heavily at the time he killed his wife.

His most dramatic moment was reached today when the jurors were shown the blood-stained garments worn by Mrs. Charlton at the time her husband killed her. Charlton uttered a suppressed groan and slumped down in his chair. Some of the jurors seemed on the verge of fainting and from the spectators, consisting mainly of women, came a murmur which resulted in several being ejected by order of the court.

Editor Flanagan of Charlestown Dead

John Stephen Flanagan, editor and publisher of the Charlestown Enterprise, is dead at his home, No. 32 Monument avenue, Charlestown. He had been confined to his home for some time with illness. Education in the old Winthrop School, followed by a course at a business college, at the age of twenty-two entered the office of the Charlestown Enterprise as an employe. Six years ago he celebrated the twenty-fifth anniversary of his ownership of the paper.

Democrats Look for Overflow at the Ratification

The candidacy of Governor Walsh will be ratified at a big Democratic mass meeting tonight in Tremont Temple.

Not the least interesting feature of the big ratification will be Mayor Curley's introduction of his most notable political opponent, Former Mayor John F. Fitzgerald. The Mayor will preside and Mr. Fitzgerald has been invited to speak. In the interest of party harmony, Mayor Curley has decided to bury the hatchet to the extent of introducing Mr. Fitzgerald.

Governor Walsh will be the principal speaker. Other candidates on the State ticket will be heard, in addition to Congressmen Gallivan, Tague, Phelan and Olney and Former Congressman Thacher.

The doors will be open at 7 o'clock. Professor John A. O'Shea will give an organ recital from 7 to 8, and a military band will also play. Plans have been made for an overflow meeting in Roxworth street, near the Temple.

Costs $150 and Jail Term for This Ride

BROCKTON, Oct. 23.—It cost three men $150 to take a ride in a buggy stolen from in front of the Brockton police station yesterday afternoon. The men, each fined $50, were George Ramadell, James Clinton, Jr., and George H. Smith, all of Brockton. The owner of the buggy is James W. Brown, inspector of plumbing in Brockton. A bag of surgical instruments taken from the auto of Dr. William H. Holmes was found in the possession of Ramadell, who was given a month sentence in addition to the $50 fine.

60,000 PARADE FOR SUFFRAGE IN NEW YORK

By International News Service.

NEW ORK, Oct. 23.—Suffrage cohorts rallied to the colors today for the greatest parade ever held in New York by "votes for women" clans.

Mobilization began early in the forenoon, and long before the hour set for the march to begin, the various organizations had gathered in Washington square awaiting the signal to parade up Fifth avenue to the Fifty-ninth street plaza.

Cool weather and bright sunshine assured the suffrage leaders of a great turnout for the parade, and when they reached their headquarters they predicted that 60,000 women would be in line.

One thousand policemen were detailed by Police Inspector Schmittberger to keep clear the line of march. Thirty drum and fife corps were engaged to furnish the music. Symbolic figures, representing "Uncle Sam," "Columbia," "Victory," "Justice" and "Equality" were a feature.

Boston Suffragists Go to Springfield

Many suffragists left Boston by auto and electric car to take part in the suffragist parade at Springfield today. After the parade the Boston contingent will return by the way of Worcester, where it will take part in the suffrage observances this evening at Worcester Common, commemorating the sixty-fifth anniversary of the First National Women's Rights Convention, in Worcester, October 23, 1850. Samuel J. Elder of Boston will preside.

Tonight there will be a suffrage meeting at the Wendell Phillips statue in the Public Garden. Miss Mabel C. Willard presiding.

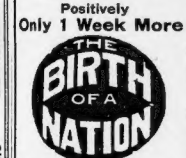
"IT WAS RECOMMENDED BY MY DOCTOR"

The Reason Why So Many People Take Father John's Medicine for Body Building and Throat and Lungs

When Mrs. C. H. Dunkel, of 33 Linden street, Reading, Pa., was asked why she took Father John's Medicine for her cough, she replied, "it was recommended by my doctor." The same question was asked and a similar answer returned by the following:—Mrs. A. E. Hixon, 30 Larkin street, Bangor, Me.; Henry F. Villet, 25 Crown street, Meriden, Conn.; Frank Poff, Hallam, Pa.; Miss Catherine Boyle, 45 Blackburn street, Fairhaven, Mass.; Charles L. Brown, Fitchburg, Ill., as well as a great many others. Physicians, hospitals and other institutions all over the world endorse the merits of Father John's Medicine for all throat and lung troubles as they have proved its worth and value.



It is best for colds, coughs and throat and lung troubles and it makes flesh and strength for those who are weak and run down. A doctor's prescription, free from alcohol and poisonous drugs in any form.—Advertisement

G-P-S-FILE NO. 113

EMILE GABORIAU'S classic Parisian mystery—A story of Daring Plots, Thrilling Action and Marvelous Detective Work. In five instalments.

SYNOPSIS OF PREVIOUS INSTALMENTS.

PROSPER BERTOMY, head cashier in the bank of M. Andre Fauvel of Paris, denies having robbed his employer's safe of 350,000 francs the night before, February 28, 186—. He admits placing the money in the safe the night before, against the bank rule, to meet a payment of 500,000 francs to Count Louis de Clameran, heir to his brother, Gaston de Clameran.

Prosper and Fauvel each had a key to the safe, which was also locked by a combination password of five letters known only to Fauvel and Prosper. The safe was not broken, so the robber evidently had a key and knew the password.

Fanferlot, a detective known as "The Squirrel," finds a scratch on the safe door, but makes light of it, thinking to glorify himself later. He intercepts a note from Prosper to Mme. Nina Gipsy, with whom Prosper has been living. Prosper had been sweetheart of Madeline, the banker's niece, but this love affair had been strangely broken off.

Fanferlot takes Prosper's note to Nina and persuades her to move to the Grand Archangel Hotel, kept by Fanferlot's wife.

Prosper is held by the magistrate. At the Police Prefecture he is noticed by M. Lecoq, a celebrated detective. M. Fauvel tells the magistrate the password to the safe the night of the robbery was "Gipsy." Later the magistrate shows Prosper that Nina Gipsy formerly was loved by a man named Caldas, who disappeared when Nina left him for Prosper.

At the Grand Archangel, Nina receives a note and goes to meet a red-whiskered man who takes her away, tricking the watching Fanferlot by the old stratagem of entering a cab on one side and leaving it on the other.

Fanferlot, baffled, has to go for aid to Lecoq, who denounces him for stupidity, then shows him that the scratch on the safe indicates too people in the robbery, one trying to stop the other. Lecoq was the red-whiskered man.

He sends Fanferlot to be valet to and watch Count Louis de Clameran.

Prosper is released under a "Not Proven" finding and the robbery case enters police archives as "File No. 113." Prosper finds a confidential man at his rooms who says he is M. Verduret, friend of Prosper's father. Raoul de Lagora, relative of Banker Fauvel's wife, urges Prosper to go to America and offers him money. M. Verduret is suspicious.

M. Verduret, taking charge of Prosper's case, to prove his innocence, shows him that Madeline loves him and hints that she is sacrificing herself and holds the secret to a plot against him.

Prosper is taken by M. Verduret to a dressmaker's, where he finds Madeline and a maid. As he protests his love for Madeline he suddenly recognizes the maid as Nina Gipsy.

M. Verduret also shows Prosper that the family history of Raoul de Lagora, Mme. Fauvel's relative, is clouded. De Lagora and Count de Clameran quarrel. Verduret takes Prosper to Raoul's house, where he sees Madeline get pawn tickets from Raoul.

Disguised as a merry-andrew, or clown, Verduret causes Mme. Fauvel to faint at a masque ball by a fanciful tale of a Chinese wife with a past. Raoul and De Clameran try to assassinate the merry-andrew.

CHAPTER XII.
On the Trail.

FORTUNATELY for the merry-andrew had a catchline instinct which enabled him to protect himself against immediate danger, and detect any harm which threatened.

He saw the man crouching in the shadow of a house and had the presence of mind to step back and spread his arms out before him, so as to ward off the would-be assassin.

This saved his life. He received a furious stab in the arm, which would have been fatal in the breast. His assailant made rapidly off.

"That was De Lagora," said the merry-andrew, "and De Clameran must be on the track of some great crime, when they attempt murder."

Binding his arm, the merry-andrew kept on. He spied two men following. He reflected:

"I must get rid of them somehow. If they find where I live and know that the merry-andrew is M. Verduret and that Verduret is Lecoq, my plans will be ruined. They will escape abroad with the money."

The merry-andrew met two policemen, to whom he put some insignificant questions. His followers stopped. Then went through the front door way of a house and out the back and thus eluded De Lagora and De Clameran.

M. Verduret reported affairs to Prosper at the Grand Archangel, adding:

"Madame Fauvel's guilt is not what I first supposed, I thought her infatuated with a seductive young adventurer, whom she had introduced as a relative, then allowed to pawn her jewels and finally rob the safe. But yesterday, in a dispute, De Clameran said to Raoul: 'If you seize me I will crush you.' That explains all. Raoul is not Mme. Fauvel's lover. She is De Clameran's tool. I have proof she and De Clameran have not met for fifteen years. We must seek in the past for her obedience to his will. Tonight De Clameran turned pale when I mentioned his brother's name. I remember Gaston died suddenly while Louis was on a visit to Italy.

"Do you think Gaston was murdered?"

"I think the men who tried to assassinate me would do anything. The robbery is secondary. I know who gave the key and who told the secret word."

"The key," said Prosper, "may have been M. Fauvel's, but the word—"

"The word, unlucky man, you gave yourself. Two days before the robbery you supped with Nina, Raoul and two friends. You said to Nina: 'You are unjust in reproaching me with not thinking constantly of you, for at this very moment it is your dear name that guards my employer's safe.'"

"Yes, I remember now."

"One of the scoundrels went to Mme. Fauvel, compelled her to give up the key, opened the safe and took the 350,000 francs. I cannot tell you how Madeline was mixed up in this affair. You must wait ten days. I am going to Beauzire, from which neighborhood De Clameran came, also Mme. Fauvel, who was Valentine de La Verberie before her marriage. Promise me you will be prudent while I am away."

Prosper promised. M. Verduret left. But Prosper became restless. On the ninth day he read a notice of Madeline's coming marriage to De Clameran. Frenzied by this Prosper wrote anonymously to M. Fauvel, as follows:

> Sir—You consigned your cashier to prison; you acted rightly, since you were convinced of his dishonesty. But if he did steal 350,000 francs, does it follow he also stole 500,000 francs? Your daughter was told by a newspaper whereon they were to be paid on a certain day. I would not be the publisher of sordid secrets, but I would watch my wife and would soon discover that one must ever be watched. Your daughter is coming before the same marriage sign up the noble Marquis de Clameran.—A Friend.

Just as Prosper posted this letter M. Verduret was coming back from Tarascon. He had learned all. Adding to what he already knew the story of an old servant, Valentine La Verberie, the affidavit of an old footman of the De Clamerans, depositions of Raoul de Lagora and a valet and police gleanings, M. Verduret had worked up a complete case.

The following is the drama, as written out by M. Verduret for the benefit of the examining magistrate, with certain grounds for an indictment.

CHAPTER XIII.
Twenty Years Back.

ABOUT six miles from Tarascon, on the left bank of the Rhone, the Marquis De Clameran lived in 1841, with his two sons, Gaston and Louis. Gaston was studious and well-liked. Louis was dissipated and overbearing.

One of their neighbors was the Countess de La Verberie. She had one child, a lovely girl of eighteen named Valentine; fair, slender and graceful, with large soft eyes.

In the days of Henri 4. La Verberie had betrayed a daughter of the Clamerans, which had led to a family feud.

But in this day Gaston de Clameran loved Valentine de La Verberie. The two met secretly on the La Verberie bank of the Rhone. Gaston swimming the treacherous river to keep his trysts.

The Countess de La Verberie was a stern woman. Never had there been those long, private talks between the Countess and Valentine, which enables a mother to read her daughter's heart like an open book. The Countess planned only to wed Valentine to wealth, so as to relieve the La Verberie poverty.

Blindly the lovers abandoned themselves to the habit of daily meetings. Regardless of the storm that threatened to burst over their heads, they revelled in the present passion. They believed everyone ignorant of their secret, they kept such a close watch.

Poor blind ones. The story of their love was neighborhood gossip. One night Gaston strolled into the Cafe Simon at Tarascon. There a youth of twenty-six named Jules Lazet spoke lightly of Valentine de La Verberie. Gaston instantly bade him apologize:

Lazet replied: "A nobleman's daughter is no better than a workingman's daughter. Virtue does not necessarily accompany a title. I mean the pretty little fairy of La Verberie."

A furious fracas followed in which Gaston seized a knife and stabbed Lazet twice in the breast, killing him.

Gaston broke through the throng after stabbing a second man and escaped to his father's chateau. He declared—and his brother Louis assented—that he must leave France. The aged Marquis, for lack of money, gave the youth his mother's jewels.

Before leaving his father Gaston confessed that Valentine had given

SIX MILITIAMEN ARE TRIED AT NASHUA

NASHUA, N. H., Oct. 23.—Six militiamen on duty at the Nashua strike were tried at a court-martial at the State armory today, presided over by Judge Advocate Lieutenant Nelson Gendron. The names of the men are withheld.

One defendant, a mere youth, was found guilty of drunkenness and fined. He was charged with drinking seven straight whiskeys while on duty.

A corporal who allowed him to do it and who is charged with standing guard outside while the drinking was going on was reduced to the ranks. The officials refused to disclose what happened in the other cases.

Inspector Jeremiah J. Hennessey of the State license commission arrived today to ascertain the names of those who sold liquor to the soldiers. He said he would report the matter to the Attorney-General.

Agent Roscoe S. Milliken of the Nashua Mills today protested to Colonel William E. Sullivan against the attitude of the militia toward the workers, and particularly objected to the militiamen flirting with young women.

The W. C. T. U. has asked Mayor Crowley to close the saloons. A petition signed by the wives of fifty strikers has also been presented to the Mayor, asking the same thing. So far the Mayor has refused to take any action.

Deputy Police Marshal Campbell is today investigating the sale of liquor to militiamen.

Captain Wilkie J. Elliott, commanding Company I, declares that a young man under twenty-one years of age was allowed to become intoxicated at one bar, and insists that the police take action against the proprietor.

"Selling liquor to the militiamen is a serious business," Captain Elliott told Deputy Campbell. "We are going to punish the soldiers that we know were intoxicated, and in addition, we think, some punishment should be meted out to the men who sold them the liquor. It's simply outrageous at this time with so much at stake."

A big demonstration is expected coincident with Stivis's funeral tomorrow afternoon. The corteges, it is understood, will be led by a band, and there will be an escort of several hundred strikers, bearing banners and mottoes. Many persons are planning to come to Nashua from surrounding towns to see the procession.

The leaders have assured the police that there will be no attempt at reprisal, nevertheless there will be an adequate police and military guard all along the route.

Funeral Services for Mrs. E. C. Swift

BEVERLY, Oct. 23.—The funeral of Mrs. Edward C. Swift, widow of the Chicago beef packer, was marked by the presence at Pride's Crossing, this noon, of many Summer residents who had returned to be present at the services. The Rev. E. J. Hardies of St. Peter's Episcopal Church at Beverly conducted the service. The body was taken to Sandwich, Cape Cod, to be buried beside that of Mr. Swift.

Famous Sculptor, T. Waldo Story, Dead

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—T. Waldo Story, the famous sculptor, died at his home here today from a blood clot on the brain. Mr. Story was the son of William Wetmore Story, who was also noted for his sculpture. The work of the younger Story was well-known in America as well as in England, where his figure of Sir William Vernon Harcourt was the first ever placed in the House of Commons. Mr. Story is survived by a widow, who was before her marriage to the sculptor, Miss Bessie Abbott, the operatic star.

Collier Launched for Boston Service

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—The steel collier Virginia, built for the Pocahontas Navigation Company for coastwise coal trade between New York and Boston, was launched at the New York Shipbuilding yard in Camden today. Miss Ethel Wurzbaugan Alexander, wife of an official of the Pocahontas Company, was sponsor. The Virginia is a sister ship of the Norfolk, built at the same yards.

OLD AGE A CRIME!

Some people are young at 40—red-headed, ruddy and vigorous. Others are old at 40—joints beginning to stiffen up a bit; step beginning to lag and lose its springiness; occasional touches of pain in the back, feel tired without cause, and possibly a twinge of rheumatic pain.

In most cases these are the danger signals to warn you that the kidneys are not promptly doing their work of throwing off the poisons that are always forming in the body. To neglect these natural warnings is a crime against yourself. If you have these symptoms you can find prompt relief in GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules. For more than 200 years this has been the recognized remedy for kidney and bladder ailments.

GOLD MEDAL Haarlem Oil Capsules are imported direct from the laboratories at Haarlem, Holland. Prices are 25c, 50c and $1.00. Get them at your druggists. Do not take a substitute.

Relief from Indigestion

The misery of poor health due to poor digestion can be relieved. If you have sour stomach, aching pains, rumbling of bowels and trembling limbs, take two teaspoonfuls of rheumatasin in half a glass of water every morning before breakfast.

It is absolutely unnecessary for you to be bothered with indigestion, for any druggist will supply you with a package of rheumatasin, which will last some time, as it is very inexpensive, and you will be able to digest your food in a perfect manner. Nausea is eliminated and this delightful after-dessert tonic is delicious and all that is needed.—Advertisement.

TODAY'S STOCK MARKETS

By W. H. ROSS, Financial Editor

Stocks closed irregular after opening strong, there being enough realizing upon the advance to impart an easier tone in the second hour in New York. The Boston market retained gains better. Trading was of good volume for a week-end session, although less than yesterday. It was very active in New York at the start. This was largely due to outside buying. The public called for a good many stocks, including railroads. The majority of the latter finished at an advance. It did not average much and, in fact, aside from a few industrials the price range was narrow. There was nothing sensational about markets. They were very orderly. Recessions did not shake confidence. Declines were due in the main to an inclination to take profits on the eve of Sunday. Reports as to domestic business were good and the tremendous exports of the week were another bullish factor. Nearly $25,000,000 in gold arrived in the country from abroad during the week, which breaks all records. Money is piling up and its increase is spreading the degire to speculate.

BIG BUSINESS IN STOCKS.

Transactions in New York totalled about half a million shares for the day and 4,713,400 for the week. Bond sales for the latter period aggregated $24,286,000. A good deal of investment buying of shares took place. Among the strongest industrials at the close were Bethlehem, Car & Foundry, Maxwell and General Motors. The last named attained a record high earlier, selling at 381. Among issues to show large losses at the end were Baldwin, General Electric, Studebaker and Willys-Overland. U. S. Steel closed unchanged. New Haven was weak among rails, having declined 1¾, Baldwin, which had sold early at a high record price, was off seven points. Equipment issues had ruled strong during the first hour. Southern Pacific made the most important railroad report, showing an increase of $1,346,719 in gross and $826,911 in net for September. Foreign exchange was weak, demand sterling declining from $4.64⅝ to $4.63, and cables from $4.65⅝ to $4.65⅝.

AMERICAN ZINC A FEATURE.

American Zinc was a feature in the Boston market, where there was considerable business. At the close it was up 3⅜, while Butte & Superior was fractionally higher. It is believed war demands are going to greatly enhance the market for spelter. There was more call for it during the week. It climbed in price in London, and Atlantic Gulf issues sold at record highs. Copper were not particularly active as a class. Trinity and Tamarack each finished with a gain of ¾, which was the decline of American Woolen. New Haven was off a point. In the metal trade extensive buying next week is expected. A large tonnage was disposed of to Europe this week and more business from that quarter is pending. Domestic demand has showed less increase, but greater consumption in this country is said to be inevitable.

NEW YORK BANK STATEMENT.

The New York bank statement shows in actual condition of clearing house members an increase of $4,636,-230 in surplus reserve to a total of $193,500,050, while the average condition increase was $1,422,850 to a total of $190,833,320. The money market at the end of the week was as easy as ever. Bankers and others do not expect much advance in rates. Financial institutions now have more than enough funds to supply all the needs of speculation and business.

GUNBOAT SMITH PICKED FOR BIG MATCH

By DAMON RUNYON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—Less than three years ago in San Francisco, Edward J. (alias Gunboat) Smith was a heavyweight. took a twenty-round decision over Frank Moran, who beated Sam Coffey, the Raccoon-on Giant, in three rounds at Madison Square Garden Tuesday night.

That decision has never been wiped out by Moran.

Five months after whipping Moran, Edward J. (alias Gunboat) Smith was awarded a decision at the end of twenty rounds over Jess Willard, the present heavyweight champion of the world, this fight also taking place in San Francisco.

The decision still stands to Willard's discredit in the record books.

Edward J. (alias Gunboat) Smith is in the same age as Moran and Willard. He weighs from fifteen to twenty pounds less than Moran, and probably fifty pounds less than Willard. He beat Jim Savage and Tony Ross, who both beat Moran. He once beat George Rodel in less time than it took Willard to turn the trick on any of the three occasions that Jess met the Boer.

And yet—listen.

HIST TO JACK CURLEY.

"I must frankly confess that Frank Moran is entitled to a match with Jess Willard."—Jack Curley, famous promoter and one of the chief parties interested in the world's champion.

We present the above facts uninfluenced by any considerations of personal regard, admiration, love, honor or respect for Edward J. (alias Gunboat) Smith. We do not know the gent. Moreover, we do not want to know him. We have never met his manager, Mr. James Buckley, and have no desire to meet him. We do not even know anybody who professes friendship for Edward J. (alias Gunboat) Smith, or Mr. Buckley, or for any person remotely connected with them.

And just among ourselves, over here in this deserted corner of the paper, we don't mind whispering that, not knowing 'em, our natural inclination would be to loathe 'em, if only because they are part and parcel of the box-duke game. We think, however, that MacIntosh that many pugilists, promoters, managers and the like, are lineal descendants of old Johnny Yeoz, the First, founder of the House of Yeoz—meaning no disrespect to the memory of John—and we don't care for most of 'em.

ALWAYS SOME EXCEPTIONS

There are exceptions, or course, and for all we know, Edward J. (alias Gunboat) Smith and Mr. Buckley are among the notable exceptions, but what we have just said applies to a lot of the others.

We are not trying to rib up a match for Edward J. (alias Gunboat) Smith; in fact, we sincerely hope if he gets a match he gets a better one than from here. We are merely presenting the characters of the heavyweight case by way of throwing a little light on the workings of the promotorial mind.

Edward J. (alias Gunboat) Smith—same and much smaller—was picked both Moran and Willard, and has fought more and better men than either, barring perhaps the incident of Mr. Johnson in the lives of Messrs. Moran and Willard. But he is not to be considered when a title match is being arranged.

Moran comes along with a twenty-round defeat by Johnson behind him, and knocks out Jim Coffey, who made a poor showing with Jim Flynn, a man easily beaten by Smith, and Moran now is "entitled" to a match with Jess Willard.

MORAN NOT "CLASSY."

Moran's defeat of Coffey, while decisive and creditable enough, is not going to impress the fight fans much for long, as it merely served to finally prove what has long been suspected—that Coffey is peculiarly vulnerable in the vicinity of the jaw. Moran merely cleaned up on a job that has never been started, but never before finished, by several others.

In view of the fact that the men in his corner were prepared to be a very sagacious lot, Coffey was permitted to make several dumb moves Tuesday night. Moran landed such a punch in the ring with his left arm-stuck out straight and stiff in front of him, and Coffey kept walking into the glove at the end, bumping his face against it repeatedly, and not making the slightest effort to brush the arm aside.

Moran will have to try to hit Coffey with his left; Coffey hit himself with it and those self-inflicted bumps did him no good.

Moran's physique, appearance, and his handling of himself, was not particularly impressive, considering him from the viewpoint of championship possibilities.

Penn State Students Are Not Live Stock

STATE COLLEGE, Pa., Oct. 23.—Penn State students who had planned traveling as live stock to the game at Philadelphia for next Saturday's game with Harvard are doomed to disappointment, as the Interstate Commerce Commission states "nothing doing."

The students intended shortening a cattle car, and thought by traveling in that fashion they would have a lot of fun and save some money. All week they were confident they would be able to make the trip as planned but it's all off.

McGoorty Scores Three Knockouts in the Antipodes

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—Eddie McGoorty, citizen of Oshkosh, gave his supporters in this country an awful shock when he lost by a knockout to Les Darcy, the pride of Australia.

Eddie claimed that he lost his strength making the weight, but the explanation carried no weight with the Australians, who believe that is the reason Les is the champion middleweight boxer of the world." And they might be right at that.

Now McGoorty has redeemed himself to some extent by cleaning up in three fights, the battles being staged just one week apart. In Brisbane, he worked on Joe Bonds, the heavyweight, who accompanied Jack Kearns' stable to the Antipodes, and knocked the big fellow out in the first round.

Then he jumped the train for a six-mile ride back to Sydney and went against "Billy" Murray on the following Saturday. Murray was knocked out in the fourth round.

Eddie finished up his trio of fights by flooring Harry Reeves, an English light heavyweight, a week later.

McGoorty's speedy victory over Murray is curious in view of the fact that Darcy, who defeated Curley McGoorty, could not put Murray away in twenty rounds, although he got the decision on points.

WILLIAMSTOWN, Oct. 23.—Trinity came here to play Williams apprehensive that Trinity's star fullback, George Brickley, brother of Charles, the former famous Harvard ten expert, might be pretty dangerous, he is alleged by some authorities to be in the same category with the Yale athletes who have been barred from amateur games. Captain Chatsford's scrubbed team has improved and he may go in for the last period.

Six-Day Bike Race Booked for Chicago

CHICAGO, Oct. 23.—The six-day bicycle race goes at the Coliseum November 19 to 25, inclusive. It is planned to have 24 teams, with a pack of the long distance stars of Europe, Australia, and America. The race this year has been advanced two months and this is figured to make it better. It will be the first big Summer campaign will be in condition.

Although the war is keeping many foreign riders away from here, the management does not figure much trouble securing the best riders for the grind. Among the entries to be signed will be Marcel Dupuy of France, Bobby Walthour of Cincinnati, Ivar Lawson of Chicago and Worth Miller of Lewisport.

Barrett Tops the Scorers.

Captain Barrett of Cornell leads all the scorers in the so-called Big Six going over for touchdowns. Histotal is 10. Next comes Welch, Forney and Shiverick, Cornell, and Gerrish, Dartmouth, 8.

Miss Sargent a Winner.

Miss Elizabeth Sargent, '18, of Somerville defeated Miss Kenotha Cummins, '20, of the same place, in the first match in the semi-finals in the annual Fall tennis tournament on the Jackson College courts.

NATIONAL WEAK, BUT HAD BIG SEASON

By SAM CRANE.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Much criticism has been directed at the National League as a result of the wide segregation of eight clubs the past season. But still every club in the organization is said to have made money.

On the other hand, it is a well-known fact that the financial returns of several American League clubs were not enough to cover their expenses, and the Johnson organization would not balk at the idea of superior playing ability to the Nationals.

A close race, with nearly every club in the running up to the last few weeks of the season, as was the case in the National League scamper after the pennant, is much better for the league fortunate to have such conditions exist than to have one club get away as much stronger than the rest that a runaway race is the result.

SEVERAL CLUBS FOR SALE.

Owners Ebbets, Taft and others are said to be more than anxious to sell their clubs. Of course they will get their price, but I suppose it would not be impossible to purchase the New York National League club.

Jim Gaffney was reported last year in the early season as ready and willing to sell the Braves. Now Jim has gone to work and built the grandest baseball plant in the country. He won a World's Championship, and that settled it with the New Yorker. He is looking for more pennants; and, believe me, there is not a club owner in the National League who has not a good chance to own a pennant-winning team next season.

The Phillies by winning this year, have made it appear possible for any club to duplicate the trick.

SHOULD BE CLOSE AGAIN.

That is what comes from having a well-balanced league, even if the richer clubs cannot get the cream. Speculation will be rife this Winter as to the probable winner, and all that all tends to advertise the game as well as the league.

There, again, another close race is virtually assured, for no club pronounced weak has improved and he may go in for the last period.

WORCESTER, Oct. 23.—Worcester Tech presented its strongest front against the Aggies here this afternoon. The Aggies last week displayed in a 7 to 7 tie with Holy Cross and Coach Sargent of Tech looked to see his team do at least as well as the Purple eleven did a week ago.

Coach Ostergren was well pleased with the showing his team made against Rhode Island State, and the eleven he picked for this afternoon's game was practically the same as that which lined up for the opening whistle last week.

WATERVILLE, Me., Oct. 23.—Colby and Bowdoin opened the championship series today on Alumni Field, Although Bowdoin has a fine record to decline in the State, her backfield was weakened by the loss of Fraser at quarterback, Schuster at halback and Bourne at fullback. All are suffering from injuries that prevented their taking part in the game.

Harvard Athletes in Student Council

Harvard athletes were favored in votes for officers of the Student Council at the first meeting. Wells Hitchcock of Concord, manager of the football team, was chosen president, William Hunnewell, manager of track, captain, vice-president; and Henry L. de Kroyft of Fairfield, Ind., coxswain of the Henley crew, secretary-treasurer. The following men were elected to the executive committee:

Norman E. Burbidge of Spokane, assistant manager of the football team; Charles A. Coolidge, Jr., of Boston, and one of the Harvard eleven; David P. Morgan, Jr., of New York, crew captain, and R. Norris Williams, 2d, of Germantown, Pennsylvania tennis champion and national lawn tennis champion of last year.

Springfield School Wins Harvard Honor

The Interscholastic scholarship trophy offered last Spring by the Harvard Chapter of the Phi Beta Kappa for the school the boys from which made the best record at the Harvard entrance examinations of 1915, has been awarded to Springfield Central High School.

Out of nine candidates from the school, six following eight won places on the honor list: Clarence Brinton, Charles Munsell, Richard Burdett, Arthur Brown, Sherburne Cook, Douglas Dunbar, Elwyn Russell and Robert Snowman.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22.—The strong Holy Cross eleven battled with the powerful Fordham team today at Fordham Field. The Worcester team has been driven hard for the past week and much time was devoted to many new plays in their recent scrimmages.

Ray Tierney, the fleet Holy Cross end, was in perfect condition for the game. He was also fortunate to have such conditions exist than to have had a game so much stronger than the rest that a runaway race is the result.

HANOVER, N. H., Oct. 22.—The Freshman football squad was well organized for the battle against the fast Andover team today. There was not a man on the injured squad, and a faster lineup than faced either Exeter or Worcester Academy was presented. The players have been shifted perfectly on forward passes.

The team is largely built around Capt. Cannell quarterback. Cannell played on the championship Exeter High team last year and shows real varsity style. His long end runs have been a feature. His passing is also strong. "Mose" Freeburg and Cogswell holding down the ends, with Austin a good substitute.

Today's game was the first real test for the Freshies.

WEST POINT, N. Y., Oct. 23.—Georgetown came here today to do battle with the Army. The poor showing of the Cadets against Colgate last week has the Gridiron Heroes and lovers of the Army eleven, who were inclined to believe the Soldiers are in for another licking at the hands of the Washingtonians.

Georgetown's strength is well known here. Their victory over the Navy by forfeit last week and their score win over North Carolina last week made a very deep impression in the Army camp.

Harvard and Tech in Long Run Today

Harvard and Massachusetts Institute of Technology engaged in a practice cross-country run at noon over the Belmont course. Captain Brown of Tech is being picked to give the best of the Crimson plodders a struggle. Other good Tech possibilities to finish early are Dunning and Potter. Harvard is depending on Captain Twitchell, Ken Fuller and R. H. Davison to be up among the leaders. The Harvard freshmen meet the Providence Tech team over a three-mile course at 2 o'clock, starting from Soldiers' Field.

It will only cost $7.75 to make the round trip to Princeton for Harvard's game with the Tigers. Already have the necessary 300 names been secured. The trip will be made via the Fall River Line and thence from New York by railroad.

Boston College sent a light but speedy eleven into the field against Tufts, at Medford, confident of an even break if not a victory. Tufts was handicapped owing to injuries in the Dartmouth game, while Boston College was probably in the best shape of the season. Tufts played veterans, while the Boston College team is a comparatively green team.

The drop kick was figured to play a prominent part in today's contest, judging from the time Captain Jim Duffy put in on this feature of play the past few days. The little Boston leader had a worthy second in Leo Daly, the star tackle.

Harry Kiley, captain of last year's team, played in the second team backfield all week, as this was his first week out this year. It was hoped Coach Steve Mahoney would try him at fullback.

The question of pivot position, which has been worrying Coach Ray all season, seems to have solved itself in the shape of big Steve Fitzgerald of last year's Notre Dame team.

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 22.—The twenty-five members of the Pittsburgh squad reached here today full of confidence in their ability to defeat Old Penn by a decisive score. Coach Warner was a hard taskmaster all week and exacted the last ounce of practice in courage that every man possessed. "Foxy" Miller was left at home, but nothing recovered from the injury received last Saturday. But outside of that the Pitt team was the best of the year.

In the game today Pitt deprived herself of many veterans of the Penn order to respect the one-year rule in effect at Pennsylvania, and which will be in vogue at Pitt next year. This deprives them of the services of Mc-Nally, Coogler and Adams.

The Pitt backfield—Hastings, Delaney and Fry—is without doubt a good one any in the country.

Frank Baker Back with 'Connie' Mack

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 23.—Frank Baker, the Athletics' former home run king, has been shown the error of his way by Connie Mack, it is freely guessed in baseball circles, and is coming back into organized baseball. Mack has made several trips to the Baker domicile at Salisbury, Md., during the past two weeks, and, according to good authority, has induced Frank to come back. It is thought on all sides that Baker, as soon as he applies for reinstatement, which it is said he will do either the White Sox or the Yankees.

Hoppe 1,500; Yamada 1,231.

That was the final score of the world's championship 14.1 balkline match, coming to a close at Convention Hall last night, add the title remains in the hands of the undefeatable little champion.

Hoppe had a hard time winning the final block, but finally placed it to his credit, 500 to 488. Yamada made the better start, but Hoppe bit up his true stroke commencing with the twelfth inning. After running off two three points in six inning, and his play in the windup w s the best of the series.

Another good sized crowd was in attendance, in fact, the match drew three splendid crowds.

PROVIDENCE, Oct. 23.—The stage was set today for the Brown-Syracuse game, when Schmick, fullback for the hill team, gathered the ball for a touchdown in about a half-minute after the kick-off, and kicked the excuse line.

Pollard, the Chicago school left halfback who electrified the spectators with his great work against Williams and Soldiers Field last week, is consingly all week. "Buzz" Andrews is the regular lineup at the opening. Hillhouse was booked to substitute for "Buzz" during the game. Both loomed up well during the week's practices.

Neither home team missed Gordan, who is looked upon as an extra Saturday. Coach Ray is light hearted over the loss, and pointed to the work of Andrews and Hillhouse.

The game today was of such importance that Coach Ray sent Sprackling, Whittemore, Hunt and Maguire here to look on from the jump. The Brown team is faster than last year. Several regulars have had last year's experience and the experts figure a shade on the Providence, if anything.

ORONO, Me., Oct. 23.—Bates and the U. of M. opened the Maine State Collegiate football series today. Bates brought a special trainload of rooters here and the strongest team the Lewiston college has sent into a championship game for the past few years.

Bates has a really strong eleven, although the team was beaten last Saturday by the score of 14 to 0. Today, however, Coach Greenleaf pulled his best men out of the lineup rather than take a chance of having them on the hospital list during the State games.

Vermont Calling on Springfield

SPRINGFIELD, Oct. 23. — Encouraged by their good showing against Yale last Saturday, Springfield Y. M. C. A. College was preparing for a strenuous week's work for the Hatfield physical directors, and will serve as a good beginning for the campaign of the next few weeks, which includes games with Rutgers, Amherst, Massachusetts "Aggies," West Point and Tufts.

Coach McCurdy has sent the team through long, stiff drills daily and has shifted many of the men in an attempt to further bolster the line. He has also spent considerable time in attempting to develop tackling, the lack of which was noticeable in the Yale game.

WORCESTER, Oct. 23.—Worcester Academy and Harvard Freshmen lined up this afternoon for what was expected to be one of the hardest contests in Worcester this season. The elevens were about equal in weight. While the Academy is only a scholastic eleven, the line is as heavy as is presented by many colleges and the backs are also stocky. Harvard 1919 is rated as one of the strongest freshman elevens in Massachusetts.

Larry Gardner Not for Yankees, States Huston

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—Captain Huston, one of the owners of the Yankees, starts at the tale of his club going to obtain "Home Run" Baker in a three-cornered deal which would involve Larry Gardner of the Red Sox and Fritz Maisel.

"We wouldn't object to getting the services of Baker," said the captain, "but as to letting Maisel go, why, we wouldn't lose him for both Baker and Gardner."

Thus does another rumor find an untimely ending.

New York Central Prexy a Former Ump

IOWA CITY, Iowa, Oct. 23.—Louis Lyons unearthed a forty-year-old baseball score book containing records of games between Iowa City, Waterloo and Keokuk when Mr. Lyons was in the National eLague.

One game is marked as being umpired by "Brown." He is now president of the New York Central Railroad.

BOXING NOTES

JOE MANDOT, Southland's lightweight champion, who has been going great guns the last two seasons at Boston Tomorrow, in company with T. Telegram Wade, for his fuss with Ted (Kid) Lewis, puglistic fanciest and all-around member right now, in the morning.

THE Mandot-Lewis set-to, which is understood to be at 134 pounds, came to the front at 2 o'clock, though doubtless the Atlas A. A. members won't learn about the notch until ringside. Some say as as a beauty bright. Some four weeks ago Mandot proved that he's there by getting the popular pick in his tussle with Johnny Dundee over in Brooklyn.

IT'S tough enough at best to outpoint the speedy Dundee in a ten-round show, but to do it on the Italian's own nah-heap is stepping some. Still, the big bulk of the Gotham experts gave Mandot the big win over Johnny in the big clash.

LEWIS has made good in Boston. Mandot has improved a lot since he showed here the last time and upon that occasion he went fast enough to get the award over Milburn (Young) Saylor. Yep, it looks like a positive top-heavy bout and should draw a top-heavy house.

THE semi-final will be pulled by Harry Carlson and Johnny Ensberg, two mighty good looking young featherweights, who just recently turned pros. If they don't get stage-fright they should put up a tidy number.

CARLSON held Finney Boyle, Low-ell's pride, to a draw in twelve rounds at Lowell Thursday night, which is going some. Barney Snyder and "Kid" Thomas of Lawrence have also been matched by Ivy Lewis.

BIG CARL MORRIS has not had his name in print very much of late months. But he's still at it, as we from Duluth, Minn., carries the information that the Sapulpa Sausage will host Jim Fred Fulton, Minnesota heavy, who is basking in the spotlight right now, next Tuesday night.

JESS WILLARD is an accommodat-ing chap. He says he'll fight Frank Moran, or anybody else for that matter, if he gets his price. Said price is only 20,000 bucks and must be guaranteed.

IF the American Boxing Association finds Johnny Kilbane guilty and orders all promoters not to book him their ruling should be generally respected.

MILWAUKEE has booked Johnny Dundee and Joe Rivers for November 5. Next Monday night Charley White goes on with Matt Wells.

THERE'S a letter at the AMERICAN, sporting department, for Miah Murray.

NEW HAVEN, Oct. 23.—Yale met Washington and Jefferson here today in a game which Yale was equal in weight. While the Academy is only a scholastic eleven, the line is as heavy as is presented by many colleges and the backs are also stocky. Harvard 1919 is rated as one of the strongest freshman elevens in Massachusetts.

YALE EXPERIMENTS.

Yale's showing was expected to prove entirely experimental. The absence of LeGore left the eleven without a star, except, possibly, in the person of Captain Harry Wilson. Yale was forced to depend upon a pair of novice halfbacks, weighing only about 160 pounds, in the persons of Kirk Smith and Joe Neville, neither of whom was able to win a regular position on his freshman eleven last season.

CHURCH BACK IN GAME.

Yale, without LeGore, the football "fans" of this city said, was like seeing Detroit without Ty Cobb.

Except for LeGore, Yale's lineup today was the same which it used in defeating Springfield College 19 to 0 last Saturday.

Yale possessed fewer reserve players than usual to throw into the game but Church and Blodgett were scheduled to relieve Captain Wilson at q. ends, Schmidt was scheduled for part of the game and Bigelow, Yale's last season's regular guard, was slated for part of the game at his old position.

Bill Savage, who was injected into the game Saturday last Saturday to replace Captain Aleck Wilson, was also for part of the season today in place of his captain, although Savage turned his ankle on Wednesday and was not right since that time.

Charley Taft, son of the ex-President, and another Taft, were slated to be driven into the backfield late in the game. Some of the coaches favor Taft over Smith as a first choice selection. But for an injury Waite would probably be a regular member of the Yale backfield at present.

PRICE HITCH IN SALE OF CUBS AND PIRATES

By HERMAN NICKERSON.

NEW YORK, Oct. 23.—That there are several clubs for sale in the National League is an assured fact.

The only thing that prevents a transfer of the franchise is the price. A lean year in baseball has caused owners to look about for purchasers, and, before the Winter months have passed, new faces may be expected in the deliberations of the older organization.

First and foremost, it is certain that the Chicago Cubs are on the market. Not that the story of McGraw and his option is any indication, for the option idea is far removed from the attitude assumed by Owner Taft; in fact, he will not consider any proposition on the option basis.

It must be a statement of so much for his ball club and in cash, too. In his endeavor to get rid of the Cubs he has not taken President Thomas into his confidence, for that gentleman sent a wire to National League headquarters saying that so far as he knew, there was nothing doing in the way of a sale of the Chicago (National League) club.

CUBS ARE ON MARKET.

The Cubs, however, are on the market and President John K. Tener of the National League is active in the endeavor to get the club into the hands of reputable Chicago parties. He has been turned down by Taft on the option idea, and the possible transfer is at present far from immediate.

The National League and Organized Baseball desire that this club be sold to Chicago people. It is a question of price alone that keeps the sale in the air.

Those interested speak of the possible change in words that would indicate the transfer under certain conditions, which means that not enough money has been offered.

DREYFUSS WILL SELL.

The Chicago club is not the only one on the market, it would appear. The dope on Pittsburg is that any one who desires to acquire that club must put up at least 25 per cent. more than Dreyfuss has paid for it, which puts that club off the marketable list.

Cincinnati and Philadelphia are also spoken of as being in the market.

Philadelphia, under the control of President Baker, has reached the top of the ladder in the National League and is in a better position for the block than ever before. It has a strong list of players, with plenty of prospect for a repeat, and which is alluring from a speculative standpoint.

In Cincinnati the situation is regarded as critical. The owners have become tired of tail-end baseball and are in a frame of mind which looks like they would listen to reason.

EXPENSES ARE TOO BIG.

Big parks, with the attendant expense in maintenance, as well as the large salaries are being figured more closely than ever this Fall by those who have their money invested in baseball. President Tener has himself tried to get an option upon the Chicago club, but without success.

Mr. Taft would not consider an option. When he wants to make a direct offer which will meet with his approval. Once he gets it the club will be sold.

Those in Organized Baseball realize that Chicago, next to New York and Boston, must be made popular in National League circles so the plans that are being laid are tending toward making it attractive for Chicago people to get in.

"Every man has his price for anything he owns," is the way those who are contemplating figuring in baseball talk. All of which, of course, is very indefinite.

Yale's Freshmen Tackle Hotchkiss

LAKEVILLE, Ct., Oct. 23.—The Yale freshman eleven came here today for their annual game with the Hotchkiss School. The freshmen hoped to atone for their defeat at the hands of Exeter Academy club, but without success, in charge of Charley Comerford, the former Exeter star.

Somerville High went into its first league game today when it met Melrose High on Somerville Field. Somerville was in much better condition than in her practice games, and Captain Scanlon was positive the sturdy bunch of men he led would win the game.

The team has followed the usual custom of the school in playing heavy games for practice games, and has met with some defeats, but has profited by them.

The Red and Blue eleven is composed of fairly heavy men and is capable of a sturdy defence, as was shown in the Newton game, the Newton men coming after Somerville's right side had been weakened by an injury to the tackle.

The backs are fast, but the chief difficulty with the team is lack of smoothness in team work although this defect is disappearing. Coach Morey spent a couple of days this week at Dartmouth and brought back some new ideas for today's game.

The injuries to Bradley caused the substitution of Gilman at right tackle, and St. Angelo's fast work on him the position of right halfback.

DANVERS, Oct. 23.—The St. John's football squad has been driven at full speed in preparation for the Mechanic Arts game this afternoon. Coach Carroll does not anticipate any trouble in defeating the Bostonians and will undoubtedly remove several of his first string men when victory seems sure.

Powers and Donovan, who have shown plenty of speed in tackling and receiving forward passes, will start the game at right and left end. "Whacker" Ahearn will play left tackle, while Creed will play left guard. McCormick, who has played a snappy game all season at centre, will be at his old position. Donahue, the rangy Somerville lad, will play right guard, aside of Shaughnessy, the right tackle. Kearns or Horrigan will start at quarter, while Smith, Sullivan and Daly will be in the backfield.

Gloucester High Battles Lawrence

GLOUCESTER, Oct. 23.—Gloucester High and Lawrence High met today for their annual football battle. Coach Hackett had the local boys in prime shape for this important contest, but the Lawrence outfit came here shouting that they would wade right through the game.

Everett High looked for an easy victory over the Wellesley High team on Everett Field today. Coach O'Donnell's subs all expected to have a hand in the mixup.

Wellesley was defeated by Malden High in the opening game of the year for both teams, 18 to 6. There is little doubt in the minds of the many Suburban League followers that Everett's team this season is far ahead of anything in the league. Everett expected to hold Wellesley scoreless in order that the series of goose eggs, which have been placed under the column of "opponents," may be continued.

A real test for Waltham High came today when the Watch City boys met Brookline High at Waltham. Neither team has met defeat this season, and today's battle was expected to be one of the mid-season classics.

Coach Delahanty says his aggregation is the strongest eleven that has ever represented the town and he went to Waltham confident of taking a few points at the expense of one of the contenders for the state championship.

In years past Brookline has proved a snag to the heavy scoring Watch City team, and for two years in succession was the only team to score upon them. Today Brookline was out for a victory.

Both teams were put through a rigid training in anticipation of the game. Extra coaches were secured by Brookline. Waltham planned to play a close game and take but few chances of getting her men injured. The next three games on the schedule are the hardest of the season—with Somerville, Newton and Portland.

Brookline had a great advantage in the matter of weight. The officials were: Joseph Courtney of Fordham, referee; Charles Moore of Maine, umpire; Thomas Bragg of Wesleyan, head linesman.

Milton Academy lined up today at Newport, R. I., against the strong St. George School team. Milton was supported by a large delegation of rooters. Last year the Milton boys won after a hard struggle and the year previous St. George was victor.

Captain Faxon, who plays left tackle, had the boys all keyed up for the struggle.

Manchester High After Lowell Win

LOWELL, Oct. 23. — Lowell High and Manchester High met today in their annual football game. Lowell has never beaten the New Hampshire team, but has tied them once.

Cleveland Amateurs Played.

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 23.—The first game between the South Tacoma, Wash., Tigers and the Cleveland, O., Whites for the amateur baseball championship, excluding intercollegiate games, ended in a 3 to 2 victory for the far Westerners. Both Eley and Crowley pitched gilt-edge ball.

Dorchester High's formidable eleven lined up today on Lincoln Field, Dunbar avenue, Dorchester, against the strong Rindge Manual Training team from Cambridge. The game was expected to be one of the best ever seen in the district.

Dorchester has played a steady game all season under the instruction of Coach Arthur Ross, and the boys were all keyed up for this contest. Dorchester had only been four, the losing end once this season, being beaten by English High, 6 to 0, on Columbus Day. The game should have been a tie at the best, but Dorchester lost the ball on a fumble that helped English get her tally.

In Rudrot, Aetin, Campbell and Colson, the Dorchester team had a quartette of backs as good as any in the high school field. The Dorchester team was evenly balanced and there were substitutes enough on the line to take care of any of the positions.

Speaker Mixed Up in $5,000 Auto Suit

Tris Speaker, the Red Sox's noted centrefielder, has been sued for $5,000 damages in the Suffolk Superior Court by Aprothel Panoro, a miner, who is represented in the case by Thero Panoro as next friend.

Miss Aprothel Panoro claims she was struck and knocked down by an automobile Speaker was driving on July 27 last near the junction of Hemenway street and Westland avenue. It is charged that Tris drove the machine in "a careless and unskilled manner."

Janvrin on Losing Team.

Hal Janvrin of the Red Sox and his friends of the Pilgrim baseball team went down before the Harvard Rovers, 8 to 6. Hitchcock and Garrett, the two Crimson pitchers the Pilgrims played Tuesday, turned in comeback.

Revere High played Quincy High today at Paul Revere Park, Revere. Gillis started at left guard for Revere instead of Negro, while Spinelli was at right tackle in place of Chambers. Stowell is Revere's best bet in kicking.

Dunn in at Quarter for Lynn High Today

LYNN, Oct. 23.—Although Dunn, the fast quarterback on the Lynn Classical high team, has been laid up for the past week with "charley horse," he was in shape for today's game with the Lynn High. The eleven has been further strengthened by the addition of Harvey and Calkins, two new halfbacks who have shown they possess both judgment and speed. Muller, the other back, has improved greatly in his kicking during the week. Lynn Classical lineup:

Langone, c.; Edson, l. t.; Gordon, e.; T. Murphy, f. g.; Eyb, r. t.; Burchen, r. e.; Dunn, q. b.; Muller, l. h. b.; Calkins, r. h. b.; Vincent, f. b.

Exeter and Dover High Clash Today

EXETER, N. H., Oct. 23.—Exeter High School and Dover High were in good trim for their second football game this season on Tuck Field today. Dover came fully prepared to wipe out its defeat of two weeks ago, when Glover, the Exeter captain, kicked a field goal.

Boston College High and Malden battled on the Malden gridiron today, when Malden endeavored to make up for the defeat handed out by Haverhill a week ago. It was Malden's first defeat this season and the Malden squad did not take it kindly.

Malden's squad had some new plays for today's game, sudden line shifts just before the ball is put into motion, that were calculated to confuse Malden opponents. Boston College High's strength was more or less a matter of mystery to Malden, for the former team has not appeared much on the north side of Boston this season and there was little opportunity for comparison.

Winthrop Calls on Fitchburg Hustlers

FITCHBURG, Oct. 23.—With every warrior in shape, Fitchburg High, contenders for the championship in the Wachusett Interscholastic League, tackled Winthrop High at New England League Park this afternoon. The visitors came to Fitchburg with the reputation of being among the best of the high school teams of the splendid second division and Coach Noah Amiott had his boys primed for a stiff battle.

Winthrop took Boston Mechanic Arts High's place on the Fitchburg schedule. The Fitchburg squad has been shaken up through the return of some of the players who were on the hospital list. The Fitchburg line-up:

Connors, c. a.; Hendon, r. t.; Colburn, r. g.; Bonanno, l. g.; Bibbins, l. t.; Hamilton, l. e.; Corbin, q. b.; Shirrefs, r. h. b.; Warner, l. h. b.; Churchill, f. b.

Everything Ends as It Ought, in Peace

CHAPTER XXVIII. (THE LAST.)

TUESDAY dragged through somehow. Night came, and still no word from Peter. He must have my letter—why did he ignore it—why no telegram or even long distance phone message? In spite of the finality of my letter I knew I had hoped somehow vaguely and desperately that Peter would protest—that he would not let me go without a word.

If the day had been agony, the long night of sleeplessness was worse. In the morning I recoiled in horror from my own face. You're thirty-Connie Drayton. I said to myself, and you don't look much under fifty. A year from now you'll look like an old woman whose life story is over—well, it is.

At the breakfast table, Betty, who was still a little too weak to endure much exertion, asked me to help her with her shopping. She and mother and I set out on separate errands. Somehow in the shops I found a queer half-solace from pain. A certain number hold the part of my brain that was not occupied in buying silk stockings and negligees and boudoir caps to match. I managed to drink some cocoa and eat a sandwich at noon and then went on with a flurry of purchasing for Betty that made me forget that I, too, had once owned a trousseau.

It was almost 6 o'clock when, weary and spent, I turned my way homeward. Mother met me at the door. "Connie, they've been phoning and phoning for you from Whitestone. They left word for you to call up as soon as you got in."

I dragged myself over to the phone and gave central the number. If I had locked fifty in the morning I felt sixty now. "Shopping does take it out of a woman," I threw over my shoulder to mother. She smiled and went on sewing hangers into Betty's new negligees.

Across the room and Betty, trying to make sachets while Jim interrupted that labore to kiss her hand and whisper to her that she was "sweet enough without."

I sat at my battered old black desk, staring out into a gray world. Soon the sun would set and then would come twilight and night and more sleepless agony. That was going to be my life for weeks and months and years perhaps, until I grew accustomed to living with my pain.

"Mrs. Drayton?" said the operator's pleasant voice. "Just a minute, please—hold the line—here's your party."

PETER'S VOICE SOUNDS OVER THE TELEPHONE

"Mrs. Drayton? Is that you, Connie?" I clutched the phone wildly. All the blood in my heart seemed pounding up into my face, and all the blood in my body seemed thudding into my heart. I wondered if I were going to faint or die, perhaps. I tried to speak, but my lips were so dry that I could not force them to form anything more than just the words, "Yes, it's I."

"Connie, I've been going mad, trying to get you for four hours since my train got in. I started an hour after I got your letter. Will you see me?"

"Yes, oh, yes. Oh, I'm so glad you're here—I'm so glad." And the echo crept into my voice that I tried to keep them back.

"I'm glad," came back Peter's voice. "You're glad, Connie? I thought you hated me. I thought the train would never get me to you. I thought the world had come to an end. I'll take a taxi and be there in fifteen minutes. I won't come in. I can't stand seeing all your people—congratulating 'em and saying the things I'd have to. Put on your hat and run down to the corner to meet me. Fifteen minutes, Connie. Thank God, you're glad."

I didn't explain to mother or Betty or Jim. I just rushed to my own room and flung myself on my knees by my bed for a minute. I had to thank God very humbly on my knees. I asked for nothing more of Heaven or Earth. A miracle had happened—somehow after all the mistakes and blunders of five bitter years Peter still loved me.

First I prayed reverently and thankfully—and then (being a woman), I got up to wash my tear-stained face and try to make myself attractive for the eyes of the man I loved. Back from my mirror two great amber-colored eyes shone on me. The clear transparency of my skin was flushed with pink. I looked on the radiant face of a girl of twenty:

"Whom God hath joined together, let not man put asunder," I murmured joyfully. Perhaps I could not give Peter as much technical understanding of his work as Lenore; surely I had no such beauty to offer him as had Mrs. Kinney—but I was his wife, the mother of his children, and I loved him—loved him just as he was, not as I had once hoped that he would be * * * I loved Him and I would try to live up to my own ideal of wifehood—"Sweetheart, comrade and almost mother" and to be all he wanted me to be!"

SHE REMEMBERS WHAT MARIAN TOLD HER

I remembered what Marian had told me, "For Heaven's sake, Connie go back and get your man—he is yours. He's the father of your kiddies. Lenore won't count — that pretty Kinney woman won't count—nobody will. If you'll just be a real wife and remember that Peter's a boy and a man and a husband and a father and a doctor and a lover of beauty—all in one."

But Peter had not waited for me to come and get him—he had come for me! There was something thing that must hold me forever happy in his stride—no matter what disappointment and pain in the human relationship of husband and wife must bring. I was thinking Peter trusted me! I was without one word to explain my frenzied letter begging Jim to come to me, or my still more frenzied letter to Peter bidding him go from me, my husband had come back to me. He had understood much — and "and forgotten what he could not understand. All through my life, I would remember mother and try to be worthy of that.

I closed the door on all my petty childishness, and a woman full-grown went out to meet Peter Drayton.

Day was fading—but even in the dimness of twilight I could see on Peter's face the tender smile I loved so well. And there with all the passing world to see, Peter took me in his arms and held me close for a second * * * And then we stepped into the waiting taxi.

"Where to, sir?" asked the driver with respect he probably thought our conduct did not warrant.

Peter laughed. "Oh, any place the end of the world is. You must have some parks in Chicago. * * *

And then my husband turned to me and caught me in strong arms that I knew never would let me go again. "I've missed you so. * * * I've wanted you. How could you leave me alone so long? Women are cold—you've hurt me, Connie."

My arm went around my husband's neck and I lifted my face to his.

"Peter—forgive me—I've hurt myself, too. * * * Do you love me—just me—in spite of it?"

Peter laughed in glorious triumph. "Connie, little sweetheart—little idiot, don't you know who the One Woman is?"

His voice hushed itself on my lips. And there was no way for me to answer, except just to creep closer into the circling arms of the One Man!

THE END.

Their Married Life

Helen Calls on Frances and Gets Into a Sort of Temperamental Mystery

Copyright, 1916, International News Service.

THE door was opened by a pleasant maid who smiled at Helen as she run lightly up the steps. In reply to Helen's question as to whether Miss Knowles was in she gave an affirmative answer and Helen was admitted to the studio. Frances peered out at her from behind the door of her bedroom.

"Hello, you old dear. It's about time you came to see me. Sit down in the window while I finish dressing."

Helen sat down in the place designated and Frances threw the door of her bedroom open wide. The shade was pulled up to the top and the afternoon sunlight streamed in over Frances, who had a light negligee wrapped around her.

Isn't it the most perfect day" she caroled. "I feel so happy, my dear, in spite of the fact that I had no sleep last night and had a horrid morning."

"What have you been doing?"

"You've heard of the Benton case, haven't you?"

"Yes, it was a horrid affair, wasn't it?"

"Rather. Well, I had to interview Mrs. Benton this morning. She is a dear, Helen, and I feel sorry for her."

"You don't think she's guilty?"

"Perhaps, but suppose she is, her husband deserved all he got and more."

"I'm glad you feel that way."

"Why, how did you suppose I would feel?"

"Hard, of course. I have always believed that magazine and newspaper women grew to look upon things as accepted facts."

"Like nurses in a hospital are supposed to feel. Well, you take it from me, Helen, most of that stuff you hear isn't true. I know some nurses who are darlings and just as tender-hearted as your most devoted mothers. It's all in the way you take things, and most girls have their own selves to thank if they become callous."

Frances was rapidly turning her red hair into a thing of beauty.

"I had the most wonderful bath," she said delightedly. "It always gives me a new lease of life when I am tired out."

HELEN IS URGED TO STAY FOR SOME TEA

"Why are you dressing up so entrancingly?" questioned Helen. "I suppose I ought'n wait so long for you. I have to be home early today."

"You simply must wait. I have the dearest new samovar, and I'm going to make you tea as soon as I am ready."

"Then you must hurry," said Helen laughingly.

"All right; I won't even dress; I'll slip on a tea gown. Frances came out of her bedroom a few minutes later, perfectly cool and with a gown of jade green chiffon clinging around her.

"Frances, where do you get such things to wear" said Helen, admiringly, and then: "Do you know that I came down here this afternoon to hear all about your Editor, Frances Bushel and turned her face away.

"You haven't changed your mind, have you?" said Helen. "I shall be so disappointed."

"I'm afraid I have," said Frances, slowly. "You see, my dear, I am getting too impulsive and do things when I shouldn't."

Helen was silent, being with Frances always had a strange effect upon her. No matter how much trouble she had taken with her costume, no matter how hard she tried to look ultra fashionable, when she was with Frances the entire thing was lost. She felt that she was a comfortably married woman.

She had never had the froth of life, the joy and sorrow of loving and being loved in the face of anything. She had a good home, even a beautiful home, a husband who gave her comforts, even some of the luxuries.

She had good friends, a charming little daughter, an automobile, was most people would consider her most fortunate. And yet would she give it all up to live life as Frances lived it? Was there something that Frances had that she had never possessed? To know life for one hour as Frances knew it, filled to the brim with living, even danger—what was danger if it meant new experience?

In short, Helen was the temperamentally inclined woman who had been starved as far as romance went. She had been surfeited with the realities of life, now she wanted something different. Long ago she had wanted Warren to be different, now she wanted to be different herself.

"Are you cross with me?" said Frances, softly, as her fingers moved deftly among the fragile cups and saucers.

"Look, I am going to give you tea in my very stunningest cup; it came from Russia, and the tea and the samovar are both Russian."

Helen smiled and said nothing, and Frances leaned forward and said coaxingly "What can I possibly say to you to put you at ease again. Let me see, Mr. Follett thought you were charming."

"Frances," protested Helen, "I am not a child."

"Oh, yes you are, a darling child, in spite of the fact that you are married and have a daughter. After all, what do you married women know of life?" and she laughed, her lovely head thrown back on her shoulders.

"Helen I am going to shake you in a moment or two. Here, have one of these cream cakes. Now, what is it you want me to tell you?"

"About what made you so happy, that day, about Mr. Atwood, the editor of The Scroll."

FRANCES IS ANXIOUS TO KNOW HELEN'S REWARD

"Here how do you know so much about Mr. Atwood?"

"Oh, I know, but I don't want you to tell me if you don't want to."

"Dear, there is nothing to tell, nothing that would interest old fogies to any one else. See here, aren't you happy, Helen?"

"Happy?" said Helen, vaguely. "Why, yes, I suppose so. Why?"

"Somehow you don't seem to be. You are longing for something. What is it? Believe me, dear, you should be the happiest of women."

"Would you be happy living my life, I live?" questioned Helen gravely.

"You have a husband and a child," murmured Frances. "Both of those possessions would be very dear to me." And then in a flash: "Come tell me, how did Warren like the tea that day. Wasn't it a little bit shocking?"

Helen smiled a little. "Frances, I approve of women smoking cigarettes."

"He seems to admire your doing it."

"Yes, but what about his wife doing it? Do you know, dear, it must be splendid to have a man feel like that."

Frances plainly did not understand, and as she took her leave a few minutes later was frankly puzzled that Frances had seemed relieved when she left. There was some kind of a mystery connected with Frances. Helen hoped that whatever it was, she would never rob Frances of her illusions.

How to Cultivate Expression

Any Girl Can Do Wonders If She Really Tries to, Says Phyllis Neilson Terry

"To be attractive in repose sounds difficult, but it is quite within the power of anyone who will try hard enough."
"Expression is a gift of the gods; repose of feature is what we make it."

Miss Phyllis Neilson Terry, who plays the name part in "Trilby" at the Shubert next week.

"SOME people do not believe that repose of feature can ever be as attractive as vivacity, but in some cases it is even more beautiful," says Phyllis Neilson Terry who will be seen in "Trilby" at the Shubert next Monday night. "Expression is a gift of the gods; repose of feature or gravity is what we make it. We may make our faces express a great deal or we may wear a mask when we are not smiling, it is all voluntary.

"Many people when seeing the picture of a girl considers pretty will grasp with incredulity when they see her minus her expression. Many girls exclaim with tears in their eyes, 'I take a miserable picture because all my looks lie in my facial expression.'

"Yet girls can make their pictures attractive if they will. They can force expression out if they will exert enough power, and think hard enough about the thing in mind.

"Be careful to always force a smile to the eyes. The easiest way to do this is to think hard of some pleasant thing. To have yourself in mind constantly fosters self consciousness, but it will soon become second nature and it is really worth fighting for after all. The eyes and lips are the most important features to remember and all details such as the arrangement of the hair should be carefully thought out so as to gain the most becoming effect.

"Unless one has perfect features, to be attractive in repose sounds difficult, but it is quite within the power of anyone who will try hard enough and it is distinctly worth while."

Adventures in Saving

ONE-TENTH FOR OTHERS

MY experience in saving is somewhat different. Five years ago I was earning $12 per week. I was married to the best girl in the world—she was nineteen and I was twenty-three. One day we decided to put away one-tenth of my modest salary each week—not for ourselves, but for others. We were convinced that that portion of my earnings was not ours to use, and without thought of how we should spare it, we started our little fund. I think I spent this first money in buying wood for a needy family.

It would seem that almost from that moment my affairs began to prosper. The tenth I gave to others came back to me, doubled and trebled, each week, and every dollar that came my way increased the good I was able to do.

The firm for which I worked soon gave over the management in the office to me, and shortly after that I started a business of my own in conjunction with the job I held.

I was soon making as much in one day as I had been earning in a week. I was also bringing comfort and good cheer to many hearts and homes with the tenth part of my daily earnings.

We were soon able to save ourselves, and when our little boy was born we felt ourselves to be the happiest couple in the world. This happiness was increased when dolly, our little seven years old little girl came to complete the family circle.

Perhaps no happier home exists in the United States than ours. My wife is free from the drudgery of life; my babies are well cared for; I am able to maintain an automobile which, to my way of thinking, is a family necessity; I carry a good life insurance policy; and best of all, we have good health with which to enjoy life. I owe all of thes blessings to the Giver of all good who prompted us to do our part, and who, when we obeyed those promptings, rewarded us a thousand fold.

I firmly believe that if all wage earners, both great and small, would wisely and cheerfully give their "tenth," it would mark the beginning of a new era such as was never known before. Nothing is so bad as self-concentration. Nothing so good for man, woman or child, as doing unto others.

My little ones are to be taught the value of unselfishness; it is a part of their daily training. Start saving for others, not forgetting to spend for them also. Notice how quickly you will be saving for yourself.

Consider Well His Father--Look at Her Mother

By DOROTHY DIX.

A CHORUS girl who is suing her father-in-law for alienating her youthful husband's affection from her, gives this sage matrimonial advice:

"Never marry a man until you know his parents. They are the people who can make or break a marriage."

This matrimonial aphorism goes double, as our sporting friends say. Undoubtedly the attitude of one's in-laws has much effect on one's domestic welfare, and the popular war with your wife's or husband's people is a safe guarantee that the dove of peace will roost upon your pot pole.

But the main reason why you should never marry into a family with which you are unacquainted is because ninety-nine times out of a hundred a man and woman are just exactly the same sort of a husband or wife as their parents did. No matter how different from their forebears a youth and maiden may seem when they are young, they are pretty sure to revert to their type as they grow older. Heredity, environment, example, teaching, are too much for them. They unconsciously turn back to the ideals that were bred in their bones.

OBSERVE THE MAN'S FATHER

For this reason it is the part of prudence for every girl who is contemplating marrying a young man to get herself invited to visit in his home, so that she may observe his father and how his father treats his mother.

If prospective mother-in-law is a tired, meek, brow beaten sort of a woman who doesn't dare to call her soul her own; if her husband sneers at her opinion; if he is always nagging about the housekeeping, and forever lambasting women's extravagance, let the girl take this as a warning sent her by her guardian angel, and break the engagement, no matter how much she thinks she loves the youth, nor how desirable a catch he is.

He will make exactly the same kind of a husband as his father. He has never seen a woman treated with any generosity or tenderness, and it simply won't occur to him that a wife has a right to expect any consideration from her husband.

THIS IS THE RIGHT MAN

On the other hand, if father-in-law is still a lover to his wife, and if mother-in-law is one of those glad-faced women who can throw more real feeling into celebrating their silver wedding than they did their first one, if father-in-law still bestows upon mother-in-law delicate little attentions, and considers her pleasure in all things, then let the girl grab their son by the hand and rush with him to the altar, lest peradventure such a good thing might get away from her.

The son of such a father will make a husband whose wife will arise and call him blessed every day of his life, because he will follow in his father's footsteps.

Look at father-in-law, girls, if you want a living picture of the kind of a husband his son is going to make. And give the girl's mother the once over, young man, if you desire to cast your matrimonial horoscope and find out whether some particular maiden will be a blessing or a curse to the man who marries her.

GIRL'S MOTHER AN INDEX

Mabel is slim and dainty, and she chatters like a magpie about nothing, and is adorably childlike because she is so naive and says such artless things. Mother is a garrulous, old, fat woman, who talks your head off and is so utterly stupid and ignorant that she bores you to death. How her husband, who is an intelligent man, stands her is beyond any guessing.

Believe me, son, that even as Mabel is, mother was at her age, and as mother is, so Mabel will be when she gets into the desolate fifties. Mabel will get fat like mother. Mabel's brainless will be just as appealing as mother's when she loses the youth and beauty that excuse all other faults in a woman. Mabel's talk will get just as much upon your nerves as mother's when you get it in forty-year doses, instead of forty minutes.

LOOK OUT FOR "NAGGER"

See what kind of a wife a girl's mother makes before you draw up a life contract with her, young man. If mother is extravagant and works her husband to death to provide her with finery, daughter will expect to keep your nose to the grindstone also. She's been brought up to believe that all that a husband is good for is to be a shopping ticket for his wife. If mother is a first class nagger, consider well if you are of the breed of men that takes kindly to fault finding. If mother is a slatternly housekeeper, reflect that your fate will be to eat out of pie cans and delicatessen bags if you marry her daughter, because she will have been brought up to no standards of cleanliness or order or good cooking.

But if mother is a real helpmate to her husband, if she is thrifty and industrious and a good manager; if she is sweet-tempered, and kind, reasonable, and broad and sympathetic, why, pop the question before you leave the house.

That kind of woman raises up the kind of girls that make good wives.

It's a safe rule to pick out your in-laws first in matrimony.

BOOM SHAW IN DORCHESTER REVIVAL

At the big revival of the seven Dorchester churches commencing tomorrow evening under the leadership of the Rev. Dr. Milton S. Rees, a strong plea will be made for prohibition and the candidacy of William Shaw for Governor.

Dr. Rees, who believes the coming issue in the United States is prohibition, says of Shaw's candidacy:

"Here is a man who has stood in the front rank of that which is best for the individual. William Shaw has been prominent in a Christian society for young people for years.

"He is deserving of the votes of all those who want the best man in the best place. He is the best man, morally speaking. He has always dealt more or less with moral issues.

SPECIFY POLITICS.

"Would it not be a grand thing to see a man Governor of this State who has never in his life been a mere politician and never been identified with any ring, but has invariably put his principle before the party?

"The man who can look ahead of his party and keep his moral principles ahead of the party would soon purify politics when he came close enough to them. William Shaw is that man today who holds the best interest of the people in his heart. Therefore vote for him."

Candidate William Shaw will speak on "Prohibition, Progress and Prosperity" at 3 p. m. tomorrow in Immanuel Baptist Church, Cambridge.

Malden churches have joined hands with hundreds of other churches in the State in the fight for prohibition.

Never before has there been such general enthusiasm expressed in so many sections of the State over the candidacy of a prohibition Governor.

The Rev. Lucius H. Bugbee, D. D., pastor of the Centre Methodist Church, Malden, the largest church in New England of that denomination, is one of the strongest defendants for William Shaw.

When asked why he was going to vote for this candidate, he replied:

NATIONAL LEGISLATION.

"Accumulated facts convince me that the traffic in alcoholic liquors is at the base of a large proportion of the poverty, misery, crime, insanity and general inefficiency of American life. As far as I can see, all efforts to regulate this traffic are more or less fruitless and the conviction grows upon me that the only likelihood of a permanent cure of the evil is to be found in national legislation prohibiting its manufacture and sale.

"A strong vote for Mr. Shaw this Fall in Massachusetts will tend to put this issue on the political map of New England and that in turn will hasten its recognition by the political parties of the nation as a matter of vital importance in our public policy.

"It will help to convince politicians that this movement in the interest of prohibition is not a matter of sentiment, but one which is so closely related to the economic and social as well as the moral welfare of the nation that it demands recognition.

MEN'S CLUB BUSY.

The Men's Club of the Park Street Church will work for the election of William Shaw.

John B. Martin, one of the members of the club and formerly superintendent of the Sunday School in that church, is one of the strongest advocates of the prohibition nominee. Mr. Martin said:

"In William Shaw we have a man who has always stood high in the community. He is one of the most popular men among the Christian people of Boston.

"Ever since his name was mentioned in this campaign he has gained friends and he is more popular today than when he began. Perfectly fearless with his message, he appears in this campaign as one who is out for the benefit of the people, and not for himself."

Movie Stars as Guests at Ball

"Real" stars in real life will be the guests of honor at the third annual movie ball, which is to be held in the Boston Arena on Wednesday evening, December 1, under the auspices of the Motion Picture Exhibitors' League of Massachusetts.

The leading film favorites of the land are anticipating this event with the greatest anxiety. They remember the reception that was given to those stars who attended the affair last year, when ten thousand persons filled the hall, while five thousand others were turned away.

The feature of the affair, which was pronounced the greatest social function ever held in New England last year, will be the double sextette grand march, led by Governor David I. Walsh and some film actress.

The Governor's partner and the remaining five couples, who will compose the double sextette, are to be chosen by the readers of the AMERICAN. A vote to be used will be found on Page 2 of the daily and Sunday AMERICAN. The six actresses and five actors receiving the largest number of votes will compose the double sextette with the Governor.

The AMERICAN offers 121 awards to the voters in the contest. The eleven voters submitting the largest number of votes for the stars who will compose the double sextette will have a special reserved box section at the ball, meet all the film favorites face to face, be present as honored guests at the film stars' banquet immediately after the ball, and go to and from the ball in touring automobiles.

CITY OF BOSTON

STATE ELECTION

City Clerk's Office, Oct. 22, 1915.

In accordance with the provisions of the laws concerning elections, notice is hereby given that meetings of the citizens of this city, qualified to vote for State officers, will be held in the several polling places designated for the purpose by the Board of Election Commissioners on and all such citizens will on said date, in the several precincts in which they are entitled to vote, give in their votes for Governor, Lieutenant-Governor, Secretary of the Commonwealth, Treasurer and Receiver-General, Auditor of the Commonwealth, Attorney-General, Sheriff, Five Commissioners to Divide the County of Suffolk into Representative Districts, Councillors, Senators and Representatives in the General Court as follows: One Representative each in Wards 7 and 26, three in Wards 4 and 5 (said wards constituting one district), three each in Wards 20 and 24, and two each in the remaining wards; also to give in their votes "Yes" or "No" in answer to the following questions:

Shall the proposed amendment to the Constitution, empowering the General Court to authorize the taking of land to relieve congestion of population and to provide homes for citizens, be approved and ratified?

Said amendment is as follows: "Article of Amendment. The General Court shall have power to authorize the Commonwealth to take land and to hold, improve, sub-divide, build upon and sell the same, for the purpose of relieving congestion of population and providing homes for citizens: provided, however, that this amendment shall not be deemed to authorize the sale of such land or buildings at less than the cost thereof."

Shall the following proposed amendment to the Constitution, enabling women to vote, be approved and ratified?

Article of Amendment. Article three of the articles of amendment to the Constitution of the Commonwealth is hereby amended by striking out in the first line thereof the word "male."

Shall the following proposed amendment to the Constitution, relative to the taxation of incomes and the granting of reasonable exceptions, be approved and ratified?

Article of Amendment. Full power and authority are hereby given and granted to the General Court to impose and levy a tax on income in the manner hereinafter provided. Such tax may be at different rates upon income derived from different classes of property, but shall be levied at a uniform rate throughout the Commonwealth upon incomes derived from the same class of property. The General Court may tax income not derived from property at a lower rate than income derived from property, and may grant reasonable exemptions and abatements. Any class of property the income from which is taxed under the provisions of this article may be exempted from the imposition and levying of proportional and reasonable assessments, rates and taxes as at present authorized by the Constitution. This article shall not be construed to limit the power of the General Court to impose and levy reasonable duties and excises.

Shall there be an election for Mayor at the next municipal election?

The polls at said meetings will be opened at six o'clock A. M., and closed at four o'clock P. M.

Attest:
JAMES DONOVAN, City Clerk.

OUR FIRST DUTY IS TO MAINTAIN PEACE; OUR NEXT DUTY IS TO PREPARE FOR WAR

Lincoln's Wonderful Letter to a Bereaved Mother

Those Who Sympathize with Women as Lincoln Did Will Favor Woman Suffrage as He Did

Copyright, 1915, by the Star Company.

A LITTLE more than fifty years ago Lincoln, although carrying on his shoulders the dreadful burden of the great war, found time to write to a woman in Massachusetts. This is his letter:

Executive Mansion,
Washington, Nov. 21, 1864.

To Mrs. Bixby, Boston, Mass.:

Dear Madam—I have been shown on the files of the War Department a statement of the Adjutant-General of Massachusetts that you are the mother of five sons who have died gloriously on the field of battle. I feel how weak and fruitless must be any word of mine which should attempt to beguile you from the grief of a loss so overwhelming. But I cannot refrain from tendering you the consolation that may be found in the thanks of the Republic they died to save. I pray that our Heavenly Father may assuage the anguish of your bereavement, and leave you only the cherished memory of the loved and lost and the solemn pride that must be yours to have laid so costly a sacrifice upon the altar of freedom.

Yours very sincerely and respectfully,
A. LINCOLN.

The next time you hear some man say that women ought not to be allowed to vote because they do not go to war, just hand him this letter—it ought to keep him quiet for awhile.

Some men, thanks to their own baseness, have a low opinion of women. But the lowest man with the lowest opinion of woman will not deny that the mother suffers intensely when her child dies.

That suffering lasts for months and years, and far surpasses the sufferings of a man who falls on the battlefield.

Lincoln knew how poor an argument it was to say that women ought not to vote because they personally do not go on the field of battle and stick bayonets into the bodies of other human beings.

He himself did not do that, yet the war caused him more suffering than it caused any fighting man, and it took his life in the end.

Lincoln knew what women suffer in this world, and he proved it when he wrote that beautiful letter to the mother of five boys, all dead on the battlefield.

He knew also, as every man ought to know, that the mother of these boys, and all the mothers, and all the women of the world, should have the same rights as men, the same protection as men. THE ONLY PROTECTION AGAINST INJUSTICE—which is the ballot.

Lincoln expressly proclaimed his belief in woman's right to share in the voting. He was a pretty good type of the American citizen, not a mollycoddle or a "weak character."

If Lincoln were alive today he would vote to give justice and the ballot to women, and you will make no mistake if you vote on November 2 as Lincoln would vote if he were here.

In tomorrow's Sunday AMERICAN there will be printed an exact reproduction of this letter of Lincoln's, showing his own handwriting, and with it a fine portrait of Lincoln, one-half page in width. You will do well to get the letter, cut it out, frame it and keep it. No finer letter was ever written.

Where Does Mr. McCall Stand on Tax Dodging?

GOVERNOR WALSH has asked Mr. McCall a perfectly fair question concerning his attitude on taxation matters in this State. Five billions of property in stocks and bonds and other intangibles are escaping taxation here.

A constitutional amendment is pending which, if the people adopt it, would enable a Legislature controlled by Republican reactionaries, as the last Legislature was controlled, to legalize tax-dodging as it cannot now be legalized under our present constitution.

Today tax-dodging is unlawful, though successful. After election it may become lawful, if the Republican party is as much in the hands of the special interests next year as it was last year. Governor Walsh has fought valiantly to compel these rich citizens to pay their taxes and not to shoulder off the burdens of the government on those who are less able to pay them, the shopkeeper and the men and women who own their own homes and other property which cannot be concealed.

It is time for the business men and the tax-payers to wake up and to ask Mr. McCall and the Republican party what their attitude is on this very critical question.

FATHER AND MOTHER—THEY ARE PARTNERS IN THE HOME

Why Not Partners at the Polls?

The man who does not share his interest with his wife is not much of a man.

In the American home husband and wife are partners. Their interests are the same, their ambitions are the same. Their hearts are in the welfare of the child.

The nation is simply the home on a bigger scale.

As men and women share responsibility and authority in the home, one consulting the other, so they should have responsibility in the nation.

Woman suffrage will make the partnership of husband and wife closer and more sacred.

Woman suffrage will increase the power of the family, of the father and mother.

Woman suffrage will mean real government by the people.

Woman suffrage will compel men in office to think of the needs of women and children.

Men, do not merely FEEL SORRY FOR WOMEN; give them justice, help them to help themselves.

VOTE FOR WOMAN SUFFRAGE ON NOVEMBER 2.

More Truth Than Poetry

The Sleepytown Express

JUST beyond the rainbow's end a river ripples down
Beneath a bridge, around a bend and flows through Sleepytown—
Through Sleepytown, where goblins toil to fashion wondrous toys
And make up fascinating ..ames for little girls and boys,
And automobiles, just the size for little hands to drive,
Await to whirl you all about as soon as you arrive.
But no one ever is allowed in Sleepytown unless
He goes to bed in time to take the Sleepytown Express.

I KNOW a foolish little boy who always starts to whine
When he is asked to trot upstairs before it's half-past nine.
And often he will stamp his feet and shake his tousled head
And make a racket, even then, when he is sent to bed.

Of course, when he has said his prayers it always is too late
To catch the Sleepytown Express—it starts at half-past eight.
And so in all his long, long life—he's five years old this Fall—
That little boy has never been to Sleepytown at all.

BUT other wiser little boys and little girls as well,
As soon as eight o'clock has struck rush right upstairs pell-mell,
Get off their clothes and say their prayers—just of their own accord—
And when the train comes rolling in, they're there to climb aboard.
And through a long delightful night they wander up and down
And have a most exciting time in queer old Sleepytown,
And not for cake or anything that children could possess
Would any of them ever miss the Sleepytown Express.

Dr. Parkhurst's Article ON

Necessity of Man Having Established Convictions and Living Up to an Unchangeable Creed If He Is to Be Among the World's Real Producers—"Open Mind" Too Often Means Wishy-Washy Character

By Dr. Charles H. Parkhurst

ALL the good work that is done in the world is done by men in whom there is no compromise, and who are stamped with a positive impress—people, namely, that are definitely committed to some truth, idea or scheme against which they brace themselves while projecting themselves into action. A man will not act largely unless he believes largely.

It is a mistake to make light of creed, whether it be religious creed or a creed that relates itself to matters of common, everyday life; for a creed is to a man in action what the vertebral column is to his body. It is not necessary that he be continually throwing it in other people's faces, any more than it is essential that he keep his backbone and the vertebrae attached to it on exhibition; but he must have it. Nor is it requisite that he make himself a nuisance by quarreling with creeds that differ from his own.

Nebulous-minded people make the claim that an unsettled state of conviction is a symptom of intellectual breadth. On the contrary, it denotes a condition of vacuity which has no dimensions, neither breadth, length nor thickness, and as such prevents one from being a producer. Under such circumstances one has no motive for producing. If he does not believe in his country there will be no reason why he should fight for his country. If God is to him only a word there is nothing impelling him to promote the knowledge of God throughout the world.

Missionaries are never made out of agnostics. If the virtues, so called, are to him only a fanciful way of designating certain problematic qualities of character that have no actual existence corresponding to such designation, he will have no interest in encouraging virtue and no moral motive for being virtuous himself. Even a false philosophy and a mistaken religion, if thoroughly believed in, is better than none, for it affords ground of support and gives tension to action; just as a wooden leg is better than no leg, for although it is fictitious it helps one get about.

Were we to apply the principle we are urging to matters of religion we should have to acknowledge that the Roman Catholic Church shows much sounder sense than do very many of our Protestants. The former not only stands sponsor for certain forms of doctrine, but insists upon their inculcation. It gives its children something definite to believe, and the belief accomplished in them by faithful tuition fits the child to grow up with a Catholic consciousness.

With a large number of Protestant parents, on the contrary, no serious effort is made to establish in the mind of the child definite religious convictions, the consequence of what is that it grows up without any, becomes a religious invertebrate, just as it would become a mathematical invertebrate if it was not taught arithmetic, and because invertebrate absolutely without religious force in the world.

That is merely an illustration of the principle for which I am contending—that whether in religious or in any other department of practical interest, blankness of mind, a state of "don't know," is void of productive energy. Men who are unsettled can never help to settle anything.

THE human mind is very much like the stomach in this respect, that they both show an early appetite for food that is over-seasoned and under-nutritious. The condition of one's mental system, like that of one's physical, depends upon what is put into it. It grows by what it feeds upon. It is not in human nature to add to the stature except by taking in material from outside. Mind and body both are subject to that law.

Exercise is good for one's constitution, but it is good because it helps in the digestion of meat and potatoes. Athletics are of no worth without the meat and potatoes. In the same way the mind does not feed upon itself, but upon intellectual provender. Its growth is made out of provender.

All of that is so simple a matter as hardly to need stating, and yet it is the simple things that are the most important and at the same time the most easily forgotten. Anaemia—that is to say, deficiency of red corpuscles in the blood—is a disease of the body that has something very akin to it in the mental condition.

There is a great deal of feebleminedness in the world that does not properly come under the head of dementia, but that is the result of the mind having poor or insufficient nourishment ministered to it. It is not due to deterioration of the brain, but to an impoverished menu and a defective cuisine. And the particular brand of poor mental food given to the mind—the mind of young people I am thinking of particularly—is the wishy-washy stuff that is given them to read.

I have recently been giving some time to anaemic literature, for the purpose in part of testing the character of prevalent diet; and it contains about the same quality of nourishment as does the combination of pickles and lollipop that schoolgirls and factory girls are given to regaling themselves with. This fact explains a great deal. There is no getting away from one's diet; we cannot rise above what we put into ourselves, body or mind.

It has been suggested that one way of cutting down public expenses would be to reduce the amount of money applied to the purchase of books of fiction for the public library. That is worth considering. Take away the pickles and lollipop, and the girls will begin to discover their appetite for sandwiches.

ONE dare not attempt to forecast with anything of detail in what condition the European nations now in conflict will find themselves at the close of the war, but it is not hazarding much to say that whether Russia issues as victor or not she will then face a dubious, not to say a revolutionary, future.

It cannot but be the case that that portion of the population that have been in military service will have become more intractable and possessed of an enlarged consciousness of their physical strength and less responsive to governmental intimidation. By their self-sacrifices they will have put the Czar under obligations, and there has been during more recent years none of that affection for this sovereign that would otherwise render sacrifice a pleasure rather than a hardship.

Napoleon's soldiers loved the master and counted it a joy to suffer in his behalf. In Russia, on the contrary, affectionate loyalty is a missing quantity. In addition to this, there are certain counts that sooner or later will have to be settled.

One is the claims that will be put forward by the Jews, who have acquired a righteous contempt for the reigning dynasty and will consider that they would be serving God in particular and the world in general by any efforts put forth to rout out the Czar and all his family.

Another menacing element are the Poles, who cannot forget the days when Poland, with its 25,000,000 inhabitants, was a great national power in Central Europe, till adjacent nations commenced to nibble at her frontiers and the entire country was finally carved up to satisfy the agregious political appetite of Russia, Prussia and Austria.

A third claim will be that of the Finns, who, at the instigation of the Germans, are already exhibiting signs of a revolutionary intent—a people originally bound to Russia only by indirect ties, but which has recently been absorbed into the empire and made the victim of a galling series of misrepresentations and abuse.

Chickens may roam abroad during the day, but they know where to return when it comes night. The Russian dynasty has heaped up to itself wrath against the day of wrath, and it seems among the improbabilities that the day of vindictive visitation will be long delayed.

War is wan kind iv shell-game th' gamblin' profissyon don't care about. It is not fair. Th' shells ar-re loaded.
